Princeton Artists Execute Portfolio of Prints to Mark Beginning of Bicentennial Here

The role that Princeton and its environs played in the founding and growth of the nation is set forth in a splendid portfolio of 15 prints, created by Princeton graphic artists and on display publicly this Saturday for the first time.

It's in honor of the Saturday launching of the Bicentennial in Princeton, a day scheduled to begin at noon with the joyous pealing of bells from Princeton churchtowers. At that same hour, the doors of "Morven" will open, and from then until 4:30 the Governor's Mansion will be open and the prints on view. From May 5-13, they will be on display at Princeton Bank and Trust.

Each of the 15 prints is part of a limited numbered edition of 20, and there are ten artist's proofs for each of the 15. The first seven of the 20 have already been sold. The price, for the whole portfolio, is $1,000. Individual prints are not for sale separately, but the ten artist's prints are available singly for $75 each. Proceeds will go to the artists.

The concept originated with Zelda Laschever, who has worked with all 15 artists professionally for many years in the presentation of displays for Princeton's schools. Mrs. Laschever proposed the idea exactly a year ago, suggesting that each artist choose some aspect of Princeton to portray graphically. For those who needed an idea, she produced one.

Over the past 12 months, the artists have been working, selecting and rejecting, creating and editing and, finally, preparing the final 20 prints that are in the 20 portfolios. With two exceptions, each of the 15 artists did her own printing. (All the 15 are women, by the way but not by design. They just happen to be the artists Mrs. Laschever has known and worked with).

The artists are Judith Brodsky, Yvonne Burk, Trudy Glucksberg, Dorothea Greenbaum, Ann Gross, Lonni Sue Johnson, Margaret Kennard Johnson, Renee Levine, Joan B. Needham, Mae Shafter Rockland, Helen Schwartz, Marie Sturken, Jane Teller, Linda White and Ann Woolfolk.

It is possible that they may achieve a kind of national immortality, because Mrs. Laschever has lovingly carried the portfolio to the Smithsonian and the Hirschhorn in Washington, and to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

"The Metropolitan people told me they were overwhelmed," Mrs. Laschever says, with a very broad smile, "and they have recommended purchase. That means, if they get any money, they'll buy it. When I showed it at the Smithsonian and the Hirschhorn, they said they were very impressed, and had seen absolutely nothing like it. But they said they were broke---even the Hirschhorn---and they recommended the Library of Congress because it really should be in the nation's capital."

Princeton University's Graphic Art Collection has already bought a portfolio, and so have the New Jersey State Museum, the New Jersey Bicentennial Commission, NASSAU HALL: In her collograph, Helen Schwartz expresses the architectural synthesis of the main features of the building: the tower, the patterns created by the windows, and over all, the sense of mass created by the use of native stone. Since Nassau Hall is only visible through trees, there is a tree as well. The print is one of the 15 in the Princeton Bicentennial portfolio.

This Is Princeton

SATURDAY, MAY 3
Bicentennial to Open. The Bicentennial will begin for Princeton this Saturday, and if you don't know how much fun it's going to be on Nassau, Witherspoon, Vandeventer and Palmer Square, you just haven't been paying attention. From "Morven" at one end to the Nassau Street School (old-style) on the other, Princeton will be celebrating the Living History of Nassau Street, using that thoroughfare not as the exclusive thoroughfare of the town, but as a symbol of Princeton.

The day will also serve to launch a brand-new Princeton publication, "The Princeton Recollector," published by that indefatigable historian Elric Endersby, and his

"Opening windows on the past," as the Recollector says, the editors and publishers have filled Vol. 1 No. 1 with recollections of growing up in Guernsey Hall, research for a model of the Dinky and recollections of its conductors, the dedication in 1925 of the War Memorial at Nassau and Mercer and a word or two about the Ronald Colman movie you could see for 30 cents.

"The Princeton Recollector" will be delivered free to all "older Princetonians" whose names turned up in a 50-year-old directory. (One delivery gal is making her deliveries on horseback!) Subscriptions available for those in other age-brackets.

Hear the Music. Visit Bank Street from 1 to 3 Saturday for music of the 1940s, and move over to Chambers around 12:30 for Fiddlers Aid. The Princeton Squares will perform at 12:30 in the Tulane Street area, and right there, from noon until the 4:30 closing, will be an antique fire-engine. Tom McCann will demonstrate gun-smithing.

F.R. Dippery has promised to show shingle-making in the Vandeventer part of town, joined by Sam McDowell and scrimshaw.

Redmond H. Marrow's wood carvings of Colonial furniture, in delicious miniature, may be seen on Witherspoon Street, which will be closed from Nassau north to Spring. The community quilt-in will be here, too.

Way down by Nassau Street School that was—across Nassau from Moore—there will be a 1 p.m. reunion of anybody who went to that school. John Counts will tell contemporary tales and fairy stories, and Street Theatre will perform "George Washington Amarcord" at 2 p.m. "Free to be" is scheduled for 12:30 performance, and the Princeton Ballet Society's Court Dance for late afternoon, so just stay there, for spectator entertainment.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stetson of the Sign of the Fox Farm, has promised to drive her pony cart, and there will be a Victoria drawn by a matched pair, if you please, a surrey and an antique sleigh.

Ragtime, Too. Ragtime piano at 1 on Vandeventer, will be followed in that area by the Princeton Folk Dancers at 3:30. You just have time to get there from the 1:30 Ballet Workshop performance in the Bank-Chambers part of town.

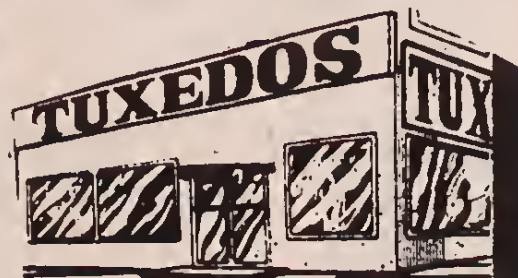

At Maclean House at 2 there will be a flute duet, at 3:15 a recorder concert and at the nearby Nassau Presbyterian Church, organ concerts every hour. (Street Theatre will be here at 3:30).

It's called the spirit of '76 and you've got to see it...We had it made into a beautiful full color poster and all sizes of colorful t-shirts, to wear on Bicentennial Day. We're even having a tea towel and poi holder with the same design, to follow shortly. They'll be great souvenirs and will be worth a fortune to Mouse Memorabilia collectors, someday.

Systemedics, Princeton Bank and Trust and the Mid-Atlantic Flange Company. Other corporations in the area are considering.

Princeton Bank and Trust is an important name in any account of the portfolio, because a $2,050 grant from the bank financed production.

The prints range in subject matter from a highly symbolic and densely textured collograph representing Princeton Theological Seminary, to a light-hearted evocation of early advertising, with showing glove-fitting, corsets and a Seth Thomas clock.

Symbolism Used. Margaret Kennard Johnson, in her collograph of the Seminary, shapes the composition to show the Seminary as one small spot in the world, sending out its influence to all the reaches of the globe. She uses such symbols as the open eye of God, Alpha and Omega, the tablets of the law, the triangle as a symbol for wisdom.

In Ann Woolfolk's witty "Early Advertising," an early Princeton newspaper displays the wares of the town on its front page. Linda White's "Route 27" shows, in two parallel maps, the King's Highway and the Borough and Township of 1975. Marie Sturken's "Princeton University" uses the seal of the University's own Bicentennial in 1946, with quotations from Woodrow Wilson and John Witherspoon. The colors? Black and orange, of course.

In similar vein, Ann Gross shows "Nassau Street, 1776-1976," in an etching and silk screen which shows the flow—and non-flow!—of contemporary traffic, with brightly colored and delightfully identifiable storefronts.

An air of sombre portent characterizes Trudy Glucksberg's "The Battle of Princeton," the chill January moon, black soldiers in silhouette, ragged and bloody lines, the two six-pounders ready to fire. A solitary, enigmatic figure, purposely unidentified by the artist, stands brooding at one side.

A companion print might be Jane Teller's etching, "In Memoriam: the Battle of Princeton." Here the serene grove of trees shelters both British and American dead in a living memorial.

The peacefulness of another resting place is evoked in "The Princeton Cemetery," Joan B. Needham's etching. Aaron Burr and Grover Cleveland, an unknown Indian and the cemetery's oldest tombstone, from 1760 combine in harmony in this quiet print.

Impish Approach. But life is represented too, impishly so in Lonni Sue Johnson's "The Arts." She makes a graphic and verbal pun—"Art is All Hours," "Art is All Ours," using a giddy web of fine lines to present us with—is it a ball in the 1700s with flash-forwards, or a costume ball of today? "Music," is singers around a piano, "Art" is on the walls of the ballroom, "Dance" is under an arch, "Literature" on the bookshelves...timelessness is a clock without hands.

Mae Shafter Rockland's wit takes the form of a special bank note issued for the Delaware-Raritan Canal. The print is sharp emerald green, as suits its subject. Irish workers, mules—and the waterways meeting where the Dinky now crosses the canal.

The intellect in history is the choice of Renee Levine with her "John Witherspoon" and Yvonne Burk with "The Institute for Advanced Studies." Mrs. Levine shows the sixth president of what is now Princeton University, and the signer of the Declaration of Independence with the deep reds and blues of the Witherspoon coat of arms. The Presbyterian who roused a Princeton citizenry not always eager in the Revolutionary cause, shows in this intaglio-silk screen sternness and justice not to be ignored.

The Burk etching, collage-like in effect, shows the great faces of the Institute: von Neuman; Einstein, Oppenheimer, Flexner, Panofsky, springing from the roots of the nearby Mercer Oak whose branches, in this print, envelop the Institute's Fuld Hall.

"Morven" itself, where these prints will be unveiled to the public, is Judith Brodsky's contribution. A floor plan, handwritten text and symbols of the Stockton family are drawn together in this print. And perhaps, on "Morven's" lawn, is Dorothea Greenbaum's "Goldfinch," in which New Jersey's state bird is shown in its gentler winter colors, perched beneath a sunflower wheel.

A second portfolio, on "Ten Crucial Days" of the Battle of Princeton, is now in preparation under Mrs. Laschever's guidance, for the Bicentennial Year itself.

"WE MOVE IN JUNE!"
To PCH Apartment. If you want to live in the low-to-middle income Princeton Community Village and have already filed a preapplication, you may already have been interviewed because interviews began this week.

If you haven't applied yet, you still can. Information available at both municipal buildings.

Rubble and giant rocks—one to be removed, the other to remain for play and pleasure—provide most of the scenery now on the PCH site, reached off Ewing Street. But when the first tenants come in June, PCH Village will be liveable.

Roads are named from plants indigenous to the site:
Red Oak Row, Sassafras Row,
Tupelo Row, and so on. Holly House is the name for the mid-rise apartment scheduled for late winter occupancy.

Townhouses Ready First.
Townhouses will be the first buildings occupied. These two, three and four bedroom duplex units have white walls, a closet for the tenant's own washer and dryer, storage space reached from an outside door and connecting with the indoor storage room, a cement patio with privacy fence, and a dining area deliberately large enough to double as a family room.

The three-bedroom units have two 12 x 12 bedrooms, each big enough for two twin beds, and a 12 x 16 master bedroom. This means that a family of six can live here comfortably. The two-bedroom unit has slightly smaller rooms—even to the livingroom.

Rents are calculated on a complex formula based on the average income of people living in the project. Rents include heat and utilities but not air-conditioning. The two bedroom duplex has a minimum rent of $220 a month. A private developer would probably charge $325 for such a unit, PCH agents say.

The three-bedroom unit will start at $250 and the four-bedroom ones at $275. There are also 24 units for low-income families and these rentals will be based on a percentage of salary. PCH hopes for Federal approval of another 24 units of low-income apartments.

Tenants will sign a one-year lease and rents will not go up during that time. A $50 deposit will be deducted from the first month's security deposit.
Agents do not expect all 500 who have applied so far, to qualify. Anyone who is cut and the window

A WEEK FOR BREAK-INS

In Princeton. There were about ten breaking and enter-ings in Princeton last week reported by the police, most including larceny.

Arnold Goldberg, owner of the Food Mart, 20 Witherspoon Street, told police that someone broke a small pane of glass in the front door to enter the store between 5:30 Monday and 7:30 Tuesday morning. Police said that an undetermined amount of money was taken from a locked cabinet which had been forced open.

Earlier in the week, Paul Hill of Hill's Market, 31 Witherspoon, reported the theft of $75 from a cash register. Police said that a lock had been broken to enter a freight entrance on Spring Street to gain access to the store.

Two cases of rye and one each of vodka and scotch with a combined value of $360 were removed last week from a liquor storage area in the basement of the Nassau Club, 6 Mercer Street. There were no signs of forced entry in the theft, reported by manager
Joseph Baker.

A front door was forced to the office of Operational Aids in Thompson Court, 195 Nassau Street. Taken in the theft last week was a portable TV set valued at $160. Ptl.
Joseph Wilhelm is investigating.

A $200 stereo set was stolen last week from a room in quarters at the Princeton

A window on the south side had been broken between 2:30 and 7:18 Sunday morning to enter. The entry was discovered by a police patrol checking businesses in the area.

A stereo set ($250) and a cassette tape recorder ($80) were stolen last week from Room 113 in 1941 Hall on the University campus. The investigation by Ptl. Robert Nielsen revealed that a metal screen over a window had been forced to open the window. Police identified the victim as Steven J. Reiser.

Man Is Threatened. A man in a Witherspoon Street apartment between Nassau and Spring Street was awakened by a knock on his door at 1:55 Tuesday morning.

Police said when he opened the door, two men forced their way inside. They threatened him with physical harm, police continued, if he didn't hand over money to them. He surrendered $113.

Police said they have a description of the suspects and the investigation is being continued by Det. Ronald Holladay.

A window cleaning service man notified police Thursday evening that a pane in a front door at Princeton High School had been broken.

No one was around when police arrived and they report receiving no subsequent report of any theft in the school.

SUSPECT CHARGED

In Assault On Pedestrian. A man who last week assaulted a 19-year Mantua girl as she walked on Nassau Street near Moore was arrested Thursday by Borough police.

Gary Marshall, 22, of Bordentown has been charged with assault and battery, threatening to take a life and molesting and interfering. He was arrested on Nassau Street near Tulane by Detectives Ronald Holliday and Gerald Patterson and later released in $5,000 bail, pending his appearance May 7 in Borough court.

Marshall has also been charged with robbery in connection with an incident February 28 on Stanworth

Good Question

Who wants to greet
The first of May
With skies so gloomy
Cold and grey?

A chill, unbelievably windy April leaves no mourners as it departs. Winds that sometimes gusted to near hurricane force, and often blew at more than 20 miles an hour for seemingly endless periods kept the temperature for the month far below normal levels.

Things will not, the Man reports, get better very quickly just because a new month is on the calendar. He's calling for showers as a daily possibility through Friday. The thermometer should top 60 each day, but even that isn't enough to bring the average where it should be in mid-spring.

Drive. He is free in $2500 bail on that charge.

Marshall and an unidentified accomplice are alleged to have accosted a woman walking her two small children. One struck her on the wrist with a chopping motion, breaking the victim's skin.

The two then grabbed her purse containing $7 and ran off. The purse was valued at $20.

EINSTEIN IS SUBJECT
Of Documentary Movie. A movie written, produced and directed by a Princeton resident about one of the greatest minds ever to live in Princeton will be premiered at the State Museum in Trenton on Sunday, May 4, at 4.

Albert Einstein: The Education of a Genius" (16 mm, 44 minutes) was done by Harold Mantell of 205 Nassau for Films for the Humanities to mark the 20th anniversary of Einstein's death. Peter Ustinov is the narrator, and Professor John A. Wheeler of Princeton University acted as consultant to the production.

Mr. Mantell will be present to introduce the film on May 4. In making the film, his aim has been to reveal through Einstein's career the conditions necessary for the flowering of genius. The film, he emphasizes, is intended for laymen as well as those interested in science.

Board Postpones Action on Selection of Middle School Principal

Princeton's Middle School still doesn't have a principal for next year. Appointments made at a special school board meeting Monday night didn't include that one. Board president Winthrop Pike said later that if the board picks somebody from inside the school system, it won't take as long as if a choice is made from outside.

Speculation that Wesley Johnson might be the new principal was wiped out when Mr. Johnson was named to a ten-month post as personnel director. It is not yet known whether he will accept.

The ten-month contract for administrators is a new one for Princeton, and it raised some dust Monday night. Teachers have ten-month contracts, but administrators have had 12-month contracts for many years.

Through a gradual conversion process, the board hopes to put all administrators on ten-month contracts, and Mr. Pike estimates a saving of $50,000 a year if this can be negotiated.

The board made a beginning Monday by abolishing one 12-month assistant principalship at Princeton High School, and making it a 10-month job. The man affected is Frank Soda. In a parallel move, the board removed the 12-month assistant-to-the-principal job, and Norman van Arsdalen will go back to the teaching staff.

Vote is 8 to 0. These moves were by a unanimous vote of the eight board members present (Gail Firestone was absent), and Superintendent Philip E. McPherson, said each time in a flat, almost ritualistic tone, that he disapproved of the moves because they were inconsistent with his earlier recommendations on administrative structure.

"Do I understand this means a ten-month contract for Mr. Soda and Mr. van Arsdalen?" asked PHS Principal George Petrillo, some time later, "But there was no chance for me to make a recommendation here!" Dr. McPherson repeated his objection to the pair of changes in PHS' structure, adding, "This is not the way to begin the change to ten-month contracts."

The board then moved to that agonizing moment in every school year: the vote granting--or withholding--tenure. This is done by a single vote, approving all of next year's staff, old and new. Usually, a full list of the several hundred persons involved, is available to the public. This year, the list was received by the board too late for copying so the audience had no way of knowing who had been voted tenure, and who had not. Many teachers were in the audience.

Welcome Results. The only board comment was from Dietrich Meyerhofer, who announced jubilantly that normal attrition had been higher than expected, and the board was able to keep every teacher it wanted to keep.

Actually, the board had to put three people back on the list--a process that kept the board in executive session for 58 minutes after the meeting had officially opened.

"Because of today's climate," in the wry and somewhat ominous words of Mr. Pike, the board took the unprecedented action of voting its non-approval of nine people it didn't want to give tenure to.

In all these personnel actions, board member Judith Getis abstained.

"The board must rely on the judgment of the administration, based on a high degree of confidence," she said tartly, "and when this is lacking, as it is now, when it is not clear why some staff are recommended and some are not, I cannot vote."

Robin Wallack, one of the board's two new members, voted "no" on the staff list. She objected "strenuously" to some staff names, and wanted to protest lack of information on why certain names were on the list.

Unusual Action. In another unusual action, the board took special notice of Elaine Solomon, voting first not to add her name to the list of appointees and later voting to terminate her contract. After the meeting, Mr. Pike explained that because Mrs. Solomon had worked part-time as well as full-time, her tenure date was different from that of others on the staff. The vote to terminate took note of the fact that she would have received automatic tenure earlier than other teachers.

Usually, the board does not talk about staff by name in making personnel decisions. It has declined to make public the names of the nine denied tenure, except for that of Mrs. Solomon.

"I am appalled at this treatment of staff," said library services staff member Jean McDonough from the audience, "You are treating people like numbers, while they sit here not knowing what's going to happen to them. This is a good staff, and this is not a humane way to treat them."

Often, principals tell teachers whether they're going to be reappointed, and Mr. Pike asked whether this hadn't already been done. The board itself had made tenure decisions three weeks ago, he said, but problems connected with the school budget had caused delay in getting the final lists out. At the request of Joan Doig, of the board, Mr. Pike then spent eight minutes reading from a ten-page list, the names of everyone appointed to the school system for next year.

"The board WAS concerned that people wouldn't know what was happening," replied Mrs. Wallack to Mrs. McDonough.

WING-DING FAIR SET

For PDS Scholarship Fund. New events, new attractions and a little nostalgia are planned for the annual Princeton Day School Fair, Saturday, May 10, from 10 to 4. Teenagers to tots, Mrs. Mary O'Leary, chairman, has taken them all into account in planning the fair, which benefits the PDS Scholarship Fund.

A 1923 Packard Touring car sets the theme for the wing-ding. Anyone wanting an instant period photo may pose at the wheel in a hear skin coat and top hat. An exchange for swapping records and posters, free, will be a new attraction this year.

Teenagers will find the teen booth, run by Mrs. Suzie McCahe, stocked with painted T-shirts created by Erica Barton of "Painted Ladies." Used jeans, decorated and patched, far-out jewelry and puka shells from Hawaii will be available as well as the antique slips and strapless 1940's evening dresses to be found at "Grandmother's Truck."

Activities indoors include the china-smash, sponge throw, dish painting and space orbit with frisbees. Outdoors will be pony rides and a hay ride, which will allow participants to watch the pitch-back game or the new bicycle skills match.

David Williams has constructed a demanding course for bike riders with a two-event competition requiring speed and accuracy. Prizes have been donated by several area bicycle dealers.

The younger set will have their own mini-midway and may search for a prize in the pockets of Mr. Pickpocket, win a bottle of soda at the hop-on-pop, play hopscotch, fish in the fishpond, and aim for the target. Lower schoolers will even have their own eatery, the peanut butter 'n' jelly.

The food department will feature frozen gourmet hors d'oeuvres and frozen soup as a new addition to the bake sale. Hamburgers and hot dogs will be supplemented by a variety of hot and cold hoagies, lemon sticks and hot coffee.

INTRUDER CAUGHT

Inside State Road Home. A Trenton man was apprehended last week by Township police hiding in a closet in the home of Archie Sharpless, 644 State Road.

Charles E. Burnett, 38, was apprehended by Detectives Norman Servis and Anthony Pinelli shortly before midnight last Tuesday. Charged with breaking and entering, he was taken to the Mercer County Detention Center in lieu of $10,000 bail.

RIDING IN STYLE: To the PDS Wing-Ding Fair in a 1923 Packard Touring Car are: from left, Doug Bailey, Meg Bailey, Sue Fineman and Elizabeth O'Leary in bunny suit. Behind her is Wendy White, Elizabeth White in coonskin, Melanie Thompson, flapper Heather Dembert and bearcoated Bethlin Thompson. The Wing will be heard Dinging all day this Saturday.

Burnett was first observed by police carrying a stick and walking in a suspicious manner on State Road. Police began a surveillance but later, after they had lost sight of him, began checking homes in the area.

Police discovered that a pane of glass had been knocked out of a rear door at the Sharpless home to reach in and unlock the door. They surrounded the house. Assisting in the arrest were Sgt. Michael Kopliner, Ptl. William Potts and Ptl. Jerry Offredo.

The owners were not home at the time, police said.

FINED, LOSES LICENSE

For Drunk Driving. James D. Kochis, 22, 95 Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill, was fined $210 and had his license revoked for two years Monday in Borough court for drunken driving. He was also placed on a year's probation with Alcoholic Anonymous.

Fined for speeding were Joseph Mannino, 3216 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro, who paid $25, and Ronald Tocco, Westminster Choir College, and William D. Hunter, 1 Cameron Court, who paid $15 each.

David A. Armiger, 297 Prospect Avenue, paid $25 for careless driving. Fined $15 each were Frances Hegarty, 32 Berrien Avenue, Princeton Junction, improper lights; and Florence Goldsmith, 29 Vandeventer Avenue, red light violation.

SPENDING MONEY...

For Capital Expenses. Uneasy concern among Township Committee members about a $2 million 1975 capital budget, of which the Township would have to bear about $1.3 million, led Committee to announce at Monday's 1975 capital budget hearing that it would table a vote on the budget until this coming Monday.

Fewer than two dozen Township residents attended Monday's hearing. For a leisurely two hours-plus, they talked about the loop road, open space, bike paths and the virtues of manual labor.

The latter is an idea from Arnold Dumey, Mt. Lucas Road. Build, he advises, with manual labor instead of earth-moving machines. Less gasoline used, more topsoil and trees conserved, more jobs provided for local men, particularly for local teenagers not always skilled enough for other jobs.

Committee asked townspeople what they thought of bikeways constructed as part of the roadway, and those who expressed an opinion thought it might be worth considering. Most bikepath questions asked Committee to explain why certain routes were designated. Other questioners asked why so many routes were to be built at once. When Robert Hosford, 430 Terhune Road, expressed surprise at finding the loop road on the 1977 capital budget when he'd thought it dead and buried, Committee reminded him that the Planning Board recommended working out a possible loop road—or possible elimination of the loop road, as part of the Circulation Master plan. It could still, therefore, end up off the map.

Mr. Hosford also questioned purchase of the Sheehan and Van Dyke Wight tracts for open space.

ANNUAL MEETING SET

By Community Services Council. "Looking at Human Services in Light of Regional Growth and Change" is the challenge of the Council of Community Services' annual meeting to be held Tuesday evening, May 13, at 8 in the theatre of the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School. Area residents and newcomers are invited.

"Region at a Crossroad," the new dual screen slide show by the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council, will be shown as background for discussing the delivery of human services.

The Council of Community Services is the area's only human service organization that is free from political or agency motivation. As a member agency of the Princeton Area United Community Fund, the Council serves 13 communities.

The annual election of the board of directors and members will be held preceding the program.

Kaysen's Resignation as Head of Institute For Advanced Study Effective June 30, '76

The Institute for Advanced Study has announced the resignation of Dr. Carl Kaysen as Director, effective June 30, 1976. At that time, Dr. Kaysen will have served for 10 years.

In accepting Dr. Kaysen's resignation, Howard Petersen, the chairman, expressed the board's regret at the Institute's loss. He said that Dr. Kaysen has served the Institute, its faculty and board with imagination, energy and intellectual distinction.

Mr. Petersen added: "His qualities of fairness and directness combined with appreciation of the complex intellectual issues which the governance of the Institute presents are rare and will not easily be replaced. In dealing with the wider world of government, foundations and business he has been an energetic, resourceful and respected representative for an Institute with our reputation, and has succeeded in bringing additional financial support at a difficult time."

Dr. Kaysen succeeded the late Robert Oppenheimer as Director in 1966, accepting the invitation of the board to broaden the intellectual range of the Institute. At that time, he was Lucius N. Littauer Professor of Political Economy at Harvard, where he had been for 20 years. As a result of his efforts, a School of Social Science was established at the Institute. He recruited its first faculty members, as well as raising funds for the new venture, to which the Ford and 1907 Foundations were major contributors.

Board Backed Kaysen. Controversy over a permanent appointment in the new School of Social Science between Dr. Kaysen and the Institute's faculty was resolved by the Board in his favor, after erupting into public dispute in 1973. The Board statement this week said: "Although it is still young, the quality of the School of Social Science reflects the very high intellectual standards set by the Founders (of the Institute)."

During the decade of Dr. Kaysen's Directorship the rest of the Institute has grown as well. The number of visiting members in the Schools of Historical Studies, Mathematics, Natural Sciences have increased by one-third, and the size of the permanent faculty, outside of Social Science, by nearly the same proportion. To accommodate this growth, a new academic office building and dining hall were built, and the housing accommodations for visiting members expanded.

Mr. Petersen also announced that the board is undertaking a thorough review of the structure and functions of the Institute before coming to a decision on the appointment of a new director. A committee of the Board under the chairmanship of Martin E. Segal has invited two outside academics to assist in the review: Jaroslav Pelikan, Professor of Church History and Dean of the Graduate School at Yale, and C. N. Yang, Nobel Laureate in Physics and Professor at Stony Brook. Professor Yang was at the Institute as a member and professor from 1949 to 1966. Other members of the Board on the Committee are: J. Richardson Dilworth, Joseph L. Doob, Robert Solow and Elizabeth Whitehead. The Review Committee has been instructed to arrange for faculty participation in its work.

The board also appointed a committee to consider filling the vacancy in the directorship. Its chairman is Michael Forrestal and the other members, all members of the Board, are Sidney Drell, Hanna Gray, William Roth and Donald Straus.

EXPENSIVE SWIM

$500 Necklace Stolen. A West Windsor woman learned last week that a Y locker is not a substantial place to leave valuables.

While she was swimming in the YWCA pool, someone stole her diamond, heart-shaped locket valued at $500. Police said there were no signs of forced entry. The locker had been locked.

Four billiard sticks in cases with a total value of $131 and two baseball gloves ($35) were stolen during the weekend from the recreation room of Dial Lodge on Prospect Avenue.

A tape player and a security bracket designed to prevent such thefts were stolen last week from a car parked behind the Garden Theater. The owner, an employee of the theater, valued them at $170. Police said a door on the driver's side had been pried open.

Construction Theft. A foreman for Peterson Construction Co., erecting a building on the Westminster College campus, called police Thursday to report the theft of equipment valued at $300.

Taken, the foreman said, were a new set of torches, gauges and hose.

PRINCETON & OLDEN AVES., TRENTON

Sooner or later,
you're going to hire a lawn service.
So here are some things you should know.

By Richard Treadwell

I'm going to do my best to make this an unbiased, informative piece of writing. My hope is to give you reasons why you should (and probably will) have a lawn service, ways to evaluate different services, some insight into costs, tips on jobs you can do yourself, and so on.

I hope to do all this without slanting the story in favor of Lawn King... but I'll probably fail.

You see I believe that our service is the best you can get. If I didn't, I'd have bought one of the other franchises.

Now you know where I stand. I hope you'll read on anyway.

Who cares, as long as it's green?

I hear this a lot. People say, "I don't give a damn whether it's grass or clover or plantain growing out there. This may be Suburbia, but I don't need a lawn for status."

Sure. But even the clover and plantain won't stay green forever without care.

And the fact is, you should care what's growing out there. If you have a good lawn, it will add from 5% to 10% to the selling price of your house. Don't take my word. Ask any reputable realtor in town.

The cost of not caring for your lawn is a lot higher than the cost of proper care.

Here's what a lawn service does.

A good service first takes a good look. Your lawn may have special problems and need special treatment. Or you may be lucky, and have a better lawn than most.

Whatever's needed, you should be told about it and told how it will be dealt with. And at that time, you should be told exactly what it will cost. If you get an "estimate," better call another lawn service.

A good lawn service will set up a program of scheduled treatments, at least four a year. (I do a lot more.) I schedule four treatment visits and four checkbacks between treatments, to see how your lawn is doing. If it needs something more, I do it. No extra charge, either. A contract is a contract. I remember one lawn where I was back about eight times — with the equipment. Tough for me, but great for that poor sick lawn.

The four regular treatments should be scheduled in spring, early summer, late summer and fall. At each one, you should get fertilization, weed control, power rolling and power aeration. (Except for late summer, when we don't aerate. It would be wrong then.)

In addition to this, your treatments should also include seeding, extra fertilization (we use three different formulas of fertilizers in different amounts at different times), grub proofing and fungus control, pre-emergent and post-emergent crab grass control, chinch bug control and sod web-worm control.

And that's just basic maintenance!

Could you do it yourself? Sure. Will you, though? No way!

Here's no mystery to what we do. You can do it yourself, and you can buy or rent all the special equipment to do it. Spreaders, aerators, rollers — they're all available.

And so are the fertilizers, control agents, seed and all the rest of it.

You can do it. But unless you're some kind of nut, you won't. You'll just go on giving your lawn a token treatment in the spring. And for the rest of the season, all you'll give it is a disgusted look on your way to the golf club, the boat or the tennis court.

Don't expect miracles.

And don't trust a lawn service operator who promises them!

No service, and no amount of care, is going to restore a sick lawn in the first treatment.

If you start now, you may see some improvement this season, but only if you know what to look for.

The real big breakthrough will come next year.

And then you'll be amazed.

I'm amazed myself, when I see what has been accomplished by four or five treatments, Mother Nature and Father Time.

What can you do yourself?

You can keep your lawn well watered. This is especially important in the spring and fall, for at least three weeks after seeding. Unless it's kept wet, seed won't germinate and the new seedlings will die.

Here's how much to water.

Put anything that holds water on your lawn while you're sprinkling. When it's an inch deep, you've watered enough.

You can cut your lawn regularly.

And you should, whenever your grass gets over three inches high. Never cut off more than one-third of the leaf and don't cut it too short. The drawing will explain why.

You can lime it every year. And you must lime it to keep the pH between 6.2 and 6.5. This is easy to do, and helps a lot. Lime can be applied at any time, the sooner the better on lawns with a low pH. As a maintenance practice, it's best to apply lime in the fall.

You can fertilize it four times a year. But be careful in the summer.

You can apply weed killer to stubborn crabgrass, dandelion plants, plantain and other nuisances. Far better than pulling them, which only gives you more weeds.

You can (and should) do a lot more, depending on the time you want to give the job.

Ask me, or ask your garden center and do as much as you see fit.

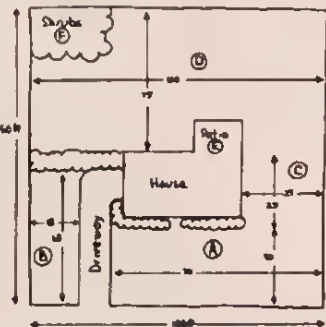

Every bit helps.

Now, down to price.

A lawn service is going to cost you, but not as much as you think.

Actually, it will be cheaper than the same care if you did it yourself. If it seems expensive, that's just because you're not doing all you should. Our price is 3½ cents a square foot for a full service, 4-season program, with a minimum of 4000 sq. feet.

Measure your lawn, and figure the cost for yourself.

Get started now.

Call me and set a date for a diagnosis and a price.

Your lawn requires constant care throughout the growing season. If you wait, the lawn will only get worse, and it will take longer to control its problems.

So if you call me now, both you and I will be a lot better off.

And so will your ratty old lawn.

Why not to cut too short.

If you cut to a 1" height, you've cut off the grass leaves. Chlorophyll in the grass leaves manufacture the plant's food from sunlight, carbon dioxide and water. So if you cut them off, the plant starves. And weeds (which are short) will grow instead.

SILVER TO BE SHOWN

At YMCA Antique Show. A collection of 18th century English silver, the work of Hester Bateman and her children, will be this year's featured display at the Princeton YMCA's sixth Annual Antique Show and Sale to be held Saturday from 10 to 10, and Sunday from noon to 6. The Bateman silver (circa 1760) accompanies exhibits of 40 dealers of antiques representing eight states from Florida to Maine.

The show has been arranged to bring together a variety of merchandise to interest the novice through the experienced collector, with prices graduated accordingly. In addition to the antiques exhibited, the sale of spring flowers, home-made food, art works and a door prize drawing for an antique will be part of the two day show, which will benefit the YMCA scholarship fund.

Mrs. Constance Bonotto, artist and art instructor in the community for 25 years, will display her work at the YWCA from Thursday through Friday, May 9 as part of the antiques show. Born in Turin, Italy, and holding the degree of professor of art from the University of Turin, Mrs. Bonotto lives at 24 Bayard Lane and actively continues with private students and Y group classes, where she has taught well over 1,000 students.

Shown during the week-long exhibit will be 30 canvasses, representing her work for over 40 years. The oldest,

LET US HELP PLAN

Residents Ask role. Urging on the road circulation committee, they ask, and let "a new tentativeness, a new humility" in making master us sit in on plans from the plans, 23 Princeton residents start.

Signers of the letter are David and Rosemary Blair (Kingston Road); George Kennan (146 Hodge); Karl and Pat Light (Cherry Valley Road); Diane Graves (268 Stockton); Hazel Henderson (60 Hodge); Robert W. MacMillan (167 Hamilton);

Calling themselves "an informal road gang," the 23 express particular concern about road planning. Representatives from the Environmental Commissions are going to be appointed to the Circulation Committee of the Planning Board, and this is fine, the 23 say, but it doesn't go far enough.

Princeton has "a large number of people who believe that thinking and planning on roads needs to be radically revised," they say. They point to three cases—widening Mt. Lucas and The Great Road, and cutting through the Loop Road—in which plans had gone to advanced stages of planning, engineering and budgeting, only to run head-on into intense public opposition.

This opposition, the group continues, consisted not only of people who didn't want the road "in my back yard," but also of other people in town who felt these plans didn't make sense in the world of today.

"Are we going to see another 'Master Plan' set in concrete and used as the unquestioned basis for new capital budget plans year after year, or might we better be considering the whole planning process today in a much more tentative light than we have tended to do in the

SON JOINS FATHER

On University Faculty. For the first time in more than 40 years, a son will join his father as full professor on the faculty at Princeton University.

Norman W. Mather, a pioneer in work with thermonuclear fusion, has been a member of the Princeton faculty since 1946. He was named professor of electrical engineering in 1958. He's being joined by his only son, John N., who at age 32 becomes a full professor in the department of mathematics.

The late Dana C. Munro, a history professor, and his son Dana G. Munro, now the William Stewart Tod Professor of History Emeritus, were the last such pair — back in the fall of 1932.

John Mather graduated from Princeton High School in 1960, where he had already begun to nourish a talent for mathematics, taking a junior-level University course in algebra while a high school senior. He went to Harvard, graduating magna cum laude with highest honors in mathematics in 1964. Twice as an undergraduate, he placed among the top 10 in the country in the Putnam competition, the nation's foremost collegiate math competition.

John N. and Norman W. Mather

He returned to Princeton to earn his Ph. D. in 1967, also winning a Procter Fellowship.

After two years of research in France he returned to Harvard in 1969 as associate professor of mathematics and was named a professor in 1971. He came to Princeton this year as a visiting professor.

A specialist in differential topology and in dynamical systems, John Mather, a member of the American Mathematical Society, has more recently studied "foliations." He also has lectured widely in this country and abroad in the area of topology. He lives at 121 Bayard Lane.

Professor Norman Mather, who at one time was assistant director of "Project Matterhorn" (now the Plasma Physics Laboratory) is a specialist in electronics. He is an alumnus of the University of California (Berkeley), and, like his son, completed graduate work at Princeton. He lives at 522 Prospect Avenue.

Says the former clerk of the Princeton faculty regarding his new father-son status at Princeton: "Let's just say the few times I've played chess with John he's always beaten me. You can draw your own conclusions."

DEMOCRATS PICK SLATE

In Pennington. The Pennington Democratic Committee has announced its slate of candidates for the November election. The public is invited to meet these candidates and others seeking county and state office at a meeting of the Hopewell Valley Democratic Club which will be held at the Pennington Fire Hall on Broemel Place, Tuesday, May 15, at 8.

Seeking the office of mayor is E. Weed Tucker, business manager and assistant general manager of the Princeton Packet. A resident of Pennington since 1956, he graduated from Hobart College. A former president of the Hopewell Valley J.C.'s, he has also served as a vestryman and member of St. Matthew's Parish Council. He lives with his wife, Beverly, and two sons, William and Neil, on Reading Street.

Rosemary Wetherill, a Pennington businesswoman, operates the Reynolds Shop and Up to You. Over two decades that she has lived in Pennington, she has been involved in many community activities. She and her husband have been active in the Pennington Business Association. Completing her sixth year as a member of the Pennington Borough Planning Board, she and her husband Frederic live on West Delaware Avenue and have three married daughters and a son, Christopher.

Peter Wade, a new arrival in Pennington, is a research chemist at E.R. Squibb and Sons in Lawrenceville. He earned his B.A. from Middlebury College and his Ph.D. from the University of Washington at Seattle. He lives with his wife, Tammy, and son, Douglas, on Hale Street.

"When I use a word," Humpty Dumpty said, "it means just what I choose it to mean—neither more nor less."

"The question is," said Alice, "whether you can make words mean so many different things."

Well, what does "thorough" mean? And "efficient"? Two ordinary words, not necessarily out of an "Alice in Wonderland" world at all.

Yet many school officials are apprehensive about the way those words could change Princeton's school system—and indeed the school system of every other district in New Jersey. And state school officials themselves are anxious to make clear their interpretations of "thorough" and "efficient" to citizens everywhere.

This Tuesday, Marian Epstein, Princeton resident who serves on the State Board of Education, explained "thorough and efficient", as the board defines it, to an audience of PTO members at Princeton High.

This Thursday, school board members, teachers and administrators from around the state will gather at Rutgers for one of several explanatory meetings.

The Background. It was slightly more than two years ago—April 3, 1973—when the State Supreme Court, on an appeal from the famous Botter decision, decided the present system of financing public education in New Jersey did not meet the state's own constitutional requirement that New Jersey provide a thorough and efficient system of free public education for every citizen between the ages of five and 18.

The financial side of that equation is difficult enough to solve, but trying to decide what a "thorough and efficient" education is, might boggle the mind of Humpty Dumpty himself.

Last April, the State Board of Education set up a task force to work on this definition. Tax payers, PTA and PTO members, and so on, participated in a series of workshops. A 22-page document of definitions, guidelines and explanations came out of those work sessions, and is now the subject of intense discussion among administrators in the Princeton system. School board members here have studied the document, according to Winthrop Pike, school board president, but haven't yet discussed it.

"It will mean very little change for Princeton," in Mrs. Epstein's view.

"Administrators here approached this with a totally unbiased view," says Ralph Heyman, administrative assistant to the superintendent. "The first big problem is defining the language."

Highlights of what the state says a district must do.

- Work out an educational plan, with the cooperation of parents, pupils, townspeople and staff, a plan to be approved annually by the local school board

- Provide ways students can attain "reasonable levels of proficiency" especially in "basic communications and computational skills."

- Develop procedures for evaluating pupil progress.

- Provide equal educational opportunity to every individual, regardless of "race, creed, color, religion, sex, age, place of residents, social or economic background."

- Work out a self-evaluation procedure, to be approved by New Jersey's Commissioner of Education. The procedure must measure pupil achievement, identify pupil needs, "prioritize" pupil needs, allocate the district's resources, evaluate the whole process and program, and plan for improvement.

Plans for improvement will be examined each year by the state, for approval.

"This approval process is indeed new," Mrs. Epstein acknowledges, "and will require more of local districts, and that's probably the greatest change, from Princeton's point of view."

"It's hard to tell the consequences to Princeton without definitions," Mr. Heyman says, "they tell us to identify the developmental levels of each pupil for instruction purposes."

Does this mean going back to a policy that says "This level is grade 3 and that level is grade 4"? They talk about "reasonable levels of proficiency," but what are "reasonable" levels. Will the state set up all these standards? If we're interpreting these guidelines right, they seem to be mechanistic and content-oriented."

Local Options. The state does not plan to set state-wide standards, Mrs. Epstein says. "The local district will set reasonable levels," she explains, "and will determine its own reasonable levels. The district works on its own goals—and should be doing this, anyway."

When the guidelines talk about evaluating "the degree of pupil achievement in progress toward goals," many Princeton administrators wonder whether this means standardized tests.

"If we must measure by standardized tests," Mr. Heyman argues, "this could mean that teachers will teach to that test, and this will have a real impact on our curriculum. Also, the guidelines require reporting these evaluations annually at a public meeting. Yet on the same page, they say pupils must be protected from 'invalid comparisons to a group average' and this seems inconsistent."

Standardized tests don't have to be involved, Mrs. Epstein says. Teacher-made tests, essay tests, teacher evaluation—all could be used.

"I hope the Princeton system—and others—will compare kids' work with the work the kids did before, rather than compare the kids' with a group average," Mrs. Epstein says. "The idea is to improve education for each child, not to meet inflexible state standards."

Who Pays? "The state clearly wants testing. How much do they want and who pays for it?" Mr. Heyman and the administrators ask. "They ask for a statement of the district's educational needs, based on its previous annual approval report. Who's going to prepare all that?"

Budgetary implications are clear, administrators say, in several areas. Schools will be required to have "suitable" provisions for the handicapped. Are Princeton's "suitable," or must an elevator, for example, be built in Princeton High? Will it be necessary to have more staff co-ordinators than Princeton now has and, in essence, put back administrative positions just budgeted out?

Under a retention policy, would pupils be obliged to sit it out in a grade until they meet standards, returning to the Good Old Days when there were 16-year-olds in the second grade year after year?

Also, some believe the risk is greater for an innovative teacher under these guidelines, and education in Princeton could be more quantified, with more test scores, more rigid curriculums.

Mrs. Epstein believes, on the contrary, that the guidelines can increase the flexibility of the schools, "provided the schools know what they're doing. They set their own criteria, decide how they're going to evaluate. It's true the state must OK the self-evaluation procedure, but all the state is saying is, the procedure must make sense. There's nothing in the guidelines that says 'You've got to learn THIS by the end of

MUGGING FAILS

On Maple Street. A young Princeton woman was dragged and kicked late Sunday night when she resisted the attempts of a mugger to steal her purse and camera.

The victim was taken to Princeton Medical Center where two sutures were needed to close a laceration of her scalp. Her assailant escaped in a red or maroon car with a black or dark top in which an accomplice, police said, was waiting.

He was described as slim, in his late teens, 5-8, with a short Afro-style hair, wearing a waist-length dark leather jacket, red trousers and white sneakers.

According to police, the victim had just gotten off a bus at Nassau and Maple and was walking on Maple when the suspect ran up behind her. She moved to let him pass but he grabbed her purse and camera straps.

The victim was dragged for a distance, police said, when she held fast to both purse and camera. Her attacker, frustrated, began to kick her in the head. Her screams brought a resident, her brother-in-law, from the area who ran out to her aid.

Meanwhile, another resident in the area had called police who responded but were unable to apprehend the suspect. "It's a terrible comment on society when people are unable to go out at night in safety," said a concerned Chief Michael Carnevale. The victim said she was struck by the fact that only one person appeared in response to her screams.

Ptl. Victor Fasanella investigated.

CHAIRMEN NAMED

Princeton Lists Department Heads. Four Princeton University faculty members will become chairmen of their departments or programs July 1, according to an announcement by Dean of the Faculty Aaron Lemonick, while five others have been reappointed.

Professor Robert L. Geddes has also been reappointed by the Board of Trustees as dean of the School of Architecture and Urban Planning, a post he has held since joining the faculty in 1965.

Newly-named chairmen are: Professor Robert Fagles, comparative literature, a new department; Professor A. Walton Litz, Jr., English; Professor Paul Benacerraf, philosophy; and James Seawright, director, visual arts program.

Reappointed were: Professor W. Robert Conner, classics; Professor Marion J. Levy, Jr., East Asian studies; Professor Joseph J. Kohn, mathematics; Professor Karl D. Uitti, Romance languages and literatures; and Professor Michael S. Mahoney, program in history and philosophy of science.

ORIENTATION PLANNED

"HOLLAND FOR EXECUTIVE" That's the rallying cry for these Princeton Democrats who are backing Trenton Mayor Arthur J. Holland in the June 3 primary elections. Mr. Holland hopes to be the Democrats' choice for the new post of Mercer County Executive. Left to right are Abbot Low Moffat; Kay McGrath, member of the county Charter Study Committee that recommended establishment of the executive position; Mr. Holland and William Brennan III, former assistant attorney-general and a Princeton attorney. Holland headquarters are at 254 Nassau.

Decade of Planning by Shade Tree Commission Brings Varied Harvest of Springtime Blossoms

Calgary pears now in lacy white bloom on both sides of Witherspoon, represent the mature flowering of the long-range tree planting program of the Borough's Shade Tree Commission. Young Calgarys, blooming on Vandeventer and Moore, will bloom more fully in a few years. The Witherspoon pears were planted about a decade ago.

This spring, the Commission and George C. Olexa, the Borough's assistant engineer, set out 110 trees. For the past five years, the Commission has planted 200 to 300 trees per year, replacing street trees as they die, with smaller trees better scaled to urban living.

Mr. Olexa and the Commission's citizen members like trees that don't take up much space and that have a high branching habit, so they won't hinder pedestrians or traffic in the streets.

"The old-fashioned shadblow was a nice discovery," Mr. Olexa says, "takes up very little room, is native to this part of the country and has that nice white blossom."

"Discovering" this native shrub at Princeton Nurseries, the Borough took everything the nursery had to plant along Library, Hodge, Maclean and Chestnut—streets with only about 18 inches of planting space.

Normally, the shadbush isn't grown as a tree, Mr. Olexa says. It needs training, to shape its normal bush form to a single stem. Colonists called it shadbush because it blooms when the shad are running.

Lindens on Linden. Along Linden Lane—linden trees, if you can believe it. They are Princeton Nurseries' "Green Spire," little-leaf linden. They've been planted along Hamilton, too.

Maples are widely used by the Borough—sugar maples, red maples, the one called "October Glory." You'll find them along Hulfish, at the Pickering Building on Chambers, on Cedar Lane.

attend an orientation program Wednesday, May 7, at 8 p.m. in the High School cafeteria.

Participating in the program will be George Petrillo, principal, his administrative staff, department chairpersons, guidance counselors and student representatives.

Topics to be covered include: the student and Princeton High School; policy and procedures governing the High School; clubs and activities; athletics; curriculum; special opportunities and program planning.

AWARDS ESTABLISHED

In Field of Humanities. Princeton University has announced the establishment of the Howard T. Behrman Awards for Distinguished Achievement in the Humanities.

The process of selecting the first group of recipients will begin this Spring, and the first awards will be made in March, 1976, President William G. Bowen said.

Howard T. Behrman

Normally four awards to victims, their families and faculty members of Princeton's humanities department, each with a stipend of $2,500, will be given annually in recognition of research, publication, teaching, or other distinguished service to the University community.

The donor, Dr. Howard T. Behrman, is a noted New York dermatologist whose avocation is book collecting. Born in Woodbine, Dr. Behrman is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and of the New York University Medical College. He has been a professor of dermatology at several medical schools and is the author of articles and texts on the subject. Since 1973, he has been living in Princeton (22 Heather Lane) as well as New York City and has become a member of the Council of the Friends of Princeton University Library. Last year, he presented the University with the manuscript of what is acknowledged to be the first American novel, "Father Bombo's Pilgrimage to Mecca." It was written in Nassau Hall in 1770 by two Princeton students, Philip Freneau and Hugh Henry Brackenridge.

In establishing the awards, Dr. Behrman said that he wanted to "reach beyond the area of book collecting, to encourage the authors and users of books in the American educational system."

Growing Up At Guernsey Hall

A Personal Reminiscence by Mary Marquand Hochschild

On the afternoon that we met, Mary Marquand Hochschild modestly asked if she might read a personal reminiscence she had set down for the occasion. The lyrical essay which follows, full of the charm and humor which marked her character, deftly captured our imagination in the flavor of another time. She gracefully agreed to let us brighten the first Recollector, by its inclusion, a few weeks before her death in February 1974. We trust that it may serve as a lasting tribute to her fond memory.

I was born in Princeton in 1900. When I was a child Princeton was a small town surrounded by farms and forests where one could picnic and pick flowers undisturbed.

The center of life in the town, and the reason most of our friends lived here, was the University. Of my parents' friends only a half dozen or so were not connected with the University and my parents did their best to keep them from feeling left out of things.

The sights, sounds and smells were all different than today.

For smells, we, like some others in the Borough, had our own cows, whose milk tasted of garlic every spring. There was a livery stable on John Street just off Nassau Street. In the fall everyone raked their leaves into the gutters and burned them, filling the town with pungent blue smoke.

The Recollector Opens Windows on the Past

Something about a walk in the woods is timeless and, therefore, conducive to some thought on the nature of time and change upon this place, Princeton. Beside Stony Brook, under the giant tulip and buttonwood trees, one is placed in a setting little altered after nearly three centuries of settlement. This continuum is an important yardstick in measuring the past against the present.

All rhetoric and romance notwithstanding, when the sullen cold of a cheerless January morning sets our feet stamping and our breath streaming through cupped hands, we can perhaps understand better than any historian the feelings of the weary foot soldier in the apprehensive moments before battle on another January morning here, not really so very long ago.

Likewise, the daily march of the sun across the floorboards of old Princeton houses changes with the seasons, but not with the years. If such a shaft of sunlight happens to touch and warm us beside our winter windows, we may share in that moment some essence of humanity with others who have sat there long before us. It is only the view which has changed.

There are windows on Nassau Street which have looked out on several centuries of Princeton change, and yet glancing through them day by day we are hard pressed to see it all happening. We must realize, nonetheless, that change is borne of the moment and it takes only a moment for the present to become the past.

Though we might wish otherwise, our windows are speechless, and if we are to seek something of that evolution of day-to-day reality we must look to the eyes of older Princetonians as our windows on the past. There are those in Princeton today who have personally observed more than half those chilly Januaries since the Battle of Princeton. For the past five years we have talked with more than 130 lifetime or long term residents about their memories of the moments which make up Princeton history.

In a town which so rapidly develops, it is only by passing along these memories from one generation to another that we may understand how we have come to be as we are. This is the principal pursuit of The Princeton Recollector. Through these pages we hope to affirm the dialogue between older and younger fellow Princetonians, so that together we may preserve our perspective on the elusive qualities which make Princeton a singular place despite the teasing changes of time.

Parking was not yet a problem when this photograph was taken in a quieter day. In celebration of Princeton's opening Bicentennial observance, "Nassau Street, A Living Museum," a series of features on the town's main thoroughfare appear on pages 14, 15, and 16.

The Princeton History Project

Local Residents of All Ages
Share Memories of the Past

The Princeton Recollector is the most recent venture of the Princeton History Project, a unique community program organized to collect, present, and preserve local history.

Many residents know the Project best through the "Princeton Yesteryear" series in the Packet, which shares the memories of older Princetonians with the town. Many persons have responded to the column through the Wednesday documentation sessions at Bainbridge House, and in letters from a dozen states.

As a visual counterpart, 15,000 glass-plate negatives have been catalogued and many have been identified by interested visitors. In addition, thousands of pictures from private albums have been borrowed, copied and returned.

In both public and private schools, classes have been initiated to conduct interviews, collect photos, prepare articles, and organize events such as one-room school reunions. This winter, gatherings of TOWNSPEOPLE have been offered to older Princetonians to share local memories.

The Recollector will serve as a clearing house of local lore for all Princetonians. Older residents will receive complimentary issues. We hope many others in the community will not only subscribe, but support the entire Project through their contributions. Together we can leave a rich record of our past, and ourselves, for the future.

ANNUAL MEETING SET

By Scholarship Foundation. The Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation will hold its annual public meeting on Tuesday, May 20, at 9:30 a.m. in the Princeton High School main office conference room. All members of the PHS-PTO are members of the Foundation's corporation and eligible to vote for Trustees to be elected to serve from 1975-78.

The Foundation's Nominating Committee, Mrs. Kenneth G. Negus (chairman), Mrs. John J. Horan, and Mrs. William R. Schowalter will present the following slate of candidates: for re-election: Joseph L. Bolster, Jr., Mrs. John J. Horan, Mrs. Richard A. Katen, Mrs. Archie G. Lummis, George L. Petrillo, Mrs. Lewis V. Thomas, Mrs. James E. Ward, Mrs. Howard B. Waxwood, Jr., and Mrs. William R. White; new Trustees, Mrs. Angelo DiMeglio, Mrs. Joseph M. Lynch, Mrs. David Parnes, and Mrs. Marvin R. Reed.

Since the Foundation will end its fund raising year on May 20, grant totals available to the Princeton High School

School on Memorial Day

Yes, there will be school Memorial Day. Before you say "I knew that all along," listen to the school board last Monday night, voting down a proposal to close school Memorial Day (Monday, May 26) and keep schools open an extra day in June—Monday, June 16—to make up the difference.

Why? Superintendent Philip E. McPherson said the secretaries' union warned him members would take the holiday. Teachers are allowed, by state law, to take legal holidays even if school is open, but the law isn't clear on non-teachers.

Families who planned to stay in town would be annoyed at finding a holiday too late for planning, the audience observed. Students in attendance wondered aloud how many kids would show up that June Monday, last day of school.

The board decided, 5-3, to poll the staff members and find out what they plan to do May 26.

Class of '75 will be announced at the meeting. The public is invited to send tax deductible donations to the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation (or PRSF) before May 20 for the Foundation's general fund or for the Jessica S. Bartlett Memorial Fund. Donations may be mailed to Foundation, Princeton High School, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

Grant applications from the Class of '75 are currently being processed by the Awards Committee, Mrs. Kenneth G. Negus and Mrs. James E. Ward (co-chairmen), Mrs. Richard A. Katen, Mrs. Bruce A. LaBar, and PHS Guidance Department representative Mrs. Lewis V. Thomas, with the assistance of a professional financial aid advisor. Grant recipients will be announced at Senior Class Night in June.

BUY A PLANT
And Help Spruce St. A plant sale, modestly billed as "the single most important event in Princeton's horticultural history," will be held Saturday, May 17 along Spruce Street. If you want to buy a flower or vegetable plant, nursery stock or fertilizer, you're asked to call ahead so the sponsors can make plans.

Proceeds will go toward recreational facilities for the two ends of the life-scale in the North Harrison area—kids and the elderly.

The newly-formed North Harrison Civic Association, according to its president, Millie Intartaglia of 72 Linden Lane, is dedicated to "maintaining environmental amenities in central Princeton." Community Park is too far for the very young and the very old, and the N.H.C.A. wants to provide for them on site. Exact plans haven't been revealed.

Anyone who wants to order plants is asked to call 924-1863, daytime, or 921-3438 evenings. Orders may also be mailed to Mrs. Intartaglia.

Palmer Square, Inc. Leases Its 2 Theatres To Big Motion Picture Chain for 10 Years

Playhouse and Garden theatres will be leased by Sameric, the Philadelphia firm, under an arrangement with Palmer Square, Inc., owners of the two houses, PSI president Fred Blaicher confirmed this week.

He did not disclose the dollar amount involved in the ten-year lease. General terms have been agreed on, he said, and he expects final signing of the agreement in about a week.

Sameric will have total control over films shown at the two theatres, Mr. Blaicher said. The company has a firm policy against X-rated films, and although Playhouse and Garden booking has been done by Sameric since April 1, it was the Rugoff firm that made arrangements for the X film "Emmanuelle" that has been playing at The Garden.

Profit from Palmer Square's two movie houses has been slumping badly in recent years, Mr. Blaicher revealed. PSI, with only two houses, has been competing with giants like General Cinema or Sameric, with 30 to 70 houses.

"We thought we'd join the biggies," Mr. Blaicher said. "We expect bookings, advertising—everything, to be more tastefully done than in the past."

whimsical figurines are available in great variety.

The Gift Shop is operated as an outlet store for a wholesale gift distributing company which sells to stores throughout the United States and Canada. Consequently there is an unusually large selection of gifts in stock and also some specially priced items with small imperfections and other "marked down samples." The "Mini-Grand Opening" will feature a coffee bar open to all.

Lyle Gerber of Somerset, N.J., won the first prize of $100; Ihor Yuri Wynnickyj, 35 Markham Road, won the $50 second prize and Linda McConnell of Willingboro was third prize winner for $25. Prize money may be used for either photography equipment or supplies.

Honorable mention was awarded to Robert Bielk, Betty Paxton, Diane Edwards La Voy, Caroline Wang, G. Alex McAlmon, Victor George Macarol, David W. Smith, Arthur C. Liese and Frank Zwart. Mr. Zwart won two mentions.

Judges were John Carnavale, chief photographer for Western Electric's Engineering Research Center, David O. Johnson of Princeton Polychrome Press and Gillett Griffin, curator of pre-Columbian art at Princeton University.

NATIONAL AWARD WON

By Princeton Firm. The Hillier Group, an architectural firm at 791 Alexander Road, has received the architectural award of excellent from the American Institute of Steel Construction for one of its buildings. Suspended from huge steel beams and supported at the corners by four concrete columns, the building in Princeton Junction was one of the first to be approved under the New Jersey State Flood Plain Law.

It sits in a marsh that is also a bird sanctuary and was constructed with a minimum change in grade, ecological damage and removal of trees. The working area is a two-story high glass enclosed loft space with the entire steel structure exposed inside. All work stations have views to the outside. Earlier this year, the building won a Good Neighbor Award from the New Jersey Manufacturers Association.

THREE RECEIVE AWARDS

At WHWU. WHWU Radio has received three awards for its public service and news programs.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 15 cents.

You don't expect a sports car with a worldwide reputation for performance to be economical. But it's true. The mid-engine Porsche 914 2.0 gets an incredible 30 miles* to the gallon, uses regular gas, and gets enough mileage from one tankful to take you over 490 miles. CAMPAIGN OPENED

By Mackenzie and Arcieri. A call for a more open and responsive Legislature in the State of New Jersey was the theme of remarks made by Lucy Mackenzie and Michael S. Arcieri as they launched their campaign for Assembly from the 14th Legislative District. Speaking before groups in Cranbury, Princeton, and Hunterdon, they also stressed their qualifications to serve in the New Jersey Assembly.

Having held various offices in her 14 years of activity with the League of Women Voters, Mrs. Mackenzie has been a League representative in the New Jersey Legislature. "For the past three years, I have edited the Legislative Roll Call, a review of the most important bills passed by both houses of the Legislature each week. I have gotten to know the issues and the problems of the State and of the 14th District, and I hope to be able to bring my experience to State government," she added.

Mr. Arcieri is mayor of Hopewell Township and has a long record of active participation in community affairs. Vice-Principal of the Hopewell Valley Regional High School, he is past chief of the Pennington Fire Department.

As Committeeman in Hopewell Township, Mr. Arcieri has led the movement for open government in Hopewell Township, which presently has open work sessions prior to all public meetings. "It is my philosophy that the people are the government and have a right to know," he said. "I believe in strong home rule and openness and responsiveness on every level of government. I hope that my record in these areas will speak out."

Mrs. Mackenzie is the wife of Dr. James W. Mackenzie, Chairman of the Department of Surgery of the College of Medicine and Dentistry at the Rutgers Medical School. She has one teenage son.

Mr. Arcieri is married to Rosemary Arcieri, who is affiliated with the Educational Testing Service, and has two teenage sons. They have said they will be happy to answer questions of constituents. Mrs. Mackenzie may be reached at (609) 924-5642, and Mr. Arcieri at (609) 737-1724.

Other first place winners for the Little Tigers were Morgan Snyder in the mile, Royce Flippin in the 880 with a fine clocking of 2:03.8, Tim Anderson in the two mile, Fred Berkelhammer in the high jump (5-10), Richard Mosley in the javelin and Blair Neilson in the shot. Ken Bullock, Rick Hannye, Mike Bolster and Tony Strong won the mile relay for PHS in 3:45.1.

PHS freshman Barry Turner won the long jump with a leap of 18-10½ and finished second in the javelin. Berkelhammer also had a second in the long jump as PHS made its best showing of the season in the field events.

PHS will next entertain Hamilton on Thursday and oppose Notre Dame away on Monday.

CHAMPAGNE FOR ALL

PHS Nine Wins First. A very happy, almost ecstatic Jim O'Neill, Princeton High School Baseball coach, finally got a solid pitching performance and as a result the Little Tigers finally won that first game—after six tries—by defeating Hightstown Monday, 4-2. "It took us the longest to get it so we're going to appreciate it the most," he said.

Chief architect of the win was Mike Boonin who went the distance, the first time this year for any PHS hurler. Mike gave up six hits, struck out nine and walked three. He threw only 95 pitches.

PHS had six hits of its own but for once they were timely. Larry Howell, Greg Robinson and Scott Thompson accounted for all by getting two each. Thompson, a sophomore, is batting .555.

Tied 2-2, PHS pushed across the winning run in the fifth when Tony Ferrara got on via an interference call against the Hightstown catcher, advanced on a Robinson single and came home on a Ram error. In the sixth, Thompson doubled home Don Seitz who had walked.

Thompson's single and Howell's double had accounted for another run in the fourth and PHS scored its first run in the second, combining a Howell single, wild pitch and a sacrifice.

To get something started, O'Neill benched starters Eddie Volz, Pete Watson, Mike Bocciafuso and Seitz and inserted Thompson, John Madden, Eric Jahn, Robinson and Ferrara. The latter, who has lost his catching job to Dave Seagers, moved to the outfield.

The albatross of defeat finally gone, PHS will be at Hamilton Friday and then entertain Notre Dame and Trenton on Tuesday and Wednesday, both games starting at 3:45. How sweet it is.

MORE DISAPPOINTMENT

For PHS Stickmen. It isn't often that a team is rejuvenated by a defeat but that may be true of the Princeton High School lacrosse team, which suffered a heartbreaking loss to Lawrenceville School Monday.

Lawrenceville, the defending Class A state champion, scored the winning goal with 1:12 to go. However, one of the victors' three goals was very controversial—called, said PHS coach Billy Cirullo, by a referee who was farthest from the play some 15 seconds after the ball had hit the cage and bounced out. The other official, he said, had immediately waived no goal. "It was no way to lose a ball game," said a distraught Cirullo.

PHS had battled the home team to a scoreless first half. Then goals by Alex Kinnan and Morgan Morhman had staked it to a 2-0 third period lead and PHS seemed well on the verge of an upset and atonement for a humiliating loss in its previous outing to Princeton Day School.

"It was a very disheartening loss—we had outplayed that ball club and controlled the ball more," Cirullo stated. "I told them after the game how pleased I was with their effort." Cirullo added that the defeat, painful as it was, had at the same time restored confidence among his players, knowing that they had played a team of Lawrenceville's ability even. "It sort of rejuvenated them."

PHS next plays Hunterdon Central Saturday at 2:30 and Pingry Monday at 3:45. Both games will be held at the PHS football field.

PDS NINE 3-3

Pingry Here Friday. Two wins last week, a 4-1 victory over Haverford College freshmen Monday, and a 10-7 slugfest earlier over Montclair Academy, brought Tom DeVito's Princeton Day School baseball team up to the .500 level.

The Panthers, who have been hitting the ball hard, will entertain Pingry Friday at 3:30 and then travel to Newton, Pa., for a Wednesday contest with George School.

PDS got all its runs against Haverford in the sixth. Carl Spataro started it with a leadoff double. Frank Konstantynowicz, Bill Baggett and Scott Ware all followed with hits. Mike Walters, who pitched the fifth and sixth innings, got the win. "We played good defense and good baseball all the way through," said DeVito.

Terry Ward, a former PDS hurler for the past two years, started for Haverford and had a one-hitter (Ware getting the lone hit) before he was removed in the fifth.

Against Montclair, PDS banged out 10 hits for ten runs, including a homer and triple by Mark Blaxill, who had 4 RBIs in two at bats. Ware added a double and a single and two RBIs as the Panthers erupted for one of their best hitting attacks of the season.

Glenn Russo, who went the distance for PDS, had a two-hitter for the first four innings, but walks, errors, a hit batsmen and some hits enabled the home team to score all its runs in the last three innings. Only two of Montclair's seven runs were earned.

News Of The CHURCHES

WOMAN ORDAINED

As Deacon in Episcopal Church. The Rev. Daphne W.P. Hawkes, 36, of 166 Stockton Street, was one of two ordained as the first women deacons in the Episcopal Church in New Jersey in a ceremony in Trenton last week.

Presided over by the Bishop of New Jersey, the ordination enables her to distribute the Holy Eucharist, baptize, preach and assist the priest in pastoral functions. Episcopal Church law bars women from being ordained as priests.

Mrs. Hawkes is the wife of Dudley Hawkes, an orthopedic surgeon, and mother of four children. She expects to graduate next month with a Masters of Divinity from Princeton Theological Seminary and will serve as deacon at Trinity Church.

LECTURE SCHEDULED

On Science and Religion. The University Chapel has announced a lecture to be given by the Rev. Professor John Turkevich of the Chemistry Department on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in McCosh 10, entitled "The Scientific Basis for a Spiritual Life." This is the third in the Chapel series on science and religion, the first two having been delivered by Professor Stanley Jaki and Dr. Donald MacKay.

Professor Turkevich, a distinguished physical chemist, combines teaching and research in Princeton University's Department of Chemistry while serving as the Eastern Orthodox Chaplain to Princeton students. He occupies the Eugene Higgins Chair in Chemistry and, as a consultant to government agencies, has conducted a seminar in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs on the relationship of government to science.

CONGREGATION RETURNS

To Original Site. Christ Congregation will celebrate 20 years of ministry on Sunday at 10 by going back across the street to the Chapel of the Westminster Choir College, where the church first worshipped before the present church building on Walnut Lane was constructed.

Guest preacher will be Dr. Ruth G. McCrossen, president of the American Baptist Churches of New Jersey. Following the worship service there will be kite flying on the campus and a birthday party luncheon in the church building.

CHOIRS TO SING

In Alexander Hall. Sacred and secular Music by Purcell, Bach, Britten, Vaughan Williams, Bartok and Handel will be included in the eighth annual Spring Concert by the Choir of Men, Boys and Girls of Trinity Church on Monday, May 12, at 8 p.m.

Presented in Princeton University's Alexander Hall, the concert will feature solos by Daniel Pratt, a member of the voice faculty at Westminster Choir College, Lester Erich and John Goldsmith, graduate students at Westminster and David Arnold, and graduate of Indiana University and a professional baritone from the Boston area. The 50 voice choir will be conducted by James Litton, organist and director of music at Trinity Church, and Harold Pysher, assistant organist and a senior at Westminster Choir College will be the accompanist.

ORGANIST WINS

In National Competition. Harold Pysher, assistant organist and choirmaster at Trinity Church and a senior at Westminster Choir College, won first place in the national organ playing competition sponsored by the Music Teachers' National Association at the organization's convention in Denver.

As first place performer, Mr. Pysher received a cash prize, as well as opportunities for recital appearances. At Westminster, he is an organ performance major and a student of Joan Lippincott, head of the organ department.

He has been assistant at Trinity Church for three years. After receiving his degree from Westminster next month, he plans to return for graduate study.

be a daily adventure. Stroll across the entry bridge—four acres of glacial rock and forest trees blend marvelously with the natural finish and clean lines of the house. From the entry level with its private guest room and full bath, step into the living room and feel the light and height of the room—almost three stories tall. A few steps up from the living room is a comfortable family room with fireplace and bar, an adjoining dining room, and a fine spacious kitchen. The children's area has four bedrooms or three and a playroom, plus two baths. The master suite has a dressing room, full bath, and adjoining study. A third floor sun room, lots of glass, and numerous decks and balconies provide different views of the outside at every turn. Zoned air conditioning, fire and burglar alarms, two-car

Firestone Sells Princeton

In two short years despite a generally tight real estate market Firestone Real Estate has come out of nowhere to become a major factor in Princeton real estate. In this short time span our dedicated professionals have set a remarkable sales record in the Princeton area.

FIRESTONE HAS SOLD 36 HOMES IN PRINCETON ALONE

... In addition to selling many properties in every township surrounding Princeton. These figures represent actual sales, not just "negotiations". Firestone was the selling broker, not just the listing broker. And this demonstrates actual selling power in Princeton, the very service you should expect from the firm with whom you list your home.

Here are some of Princeton's fine properties we have sold, and the prices at which they were listed. Maybe one is in your neighborhood.

These properties represent only those we have sold and not the many additional properties we have listed. Of the properties we have listed in the Princeton area, and placed on three multiple listing systems for all brokers to sell ...

FIRESTONE WAS THE SELLING BROKER FOR OVER 60% OF ITS OWN LISTINGS

When the average in our area is about 25%, this certainly assures our owners that they have listed with not only an active office, but the right office.

THE KEY TO FIRESTONE'S SUCCESS IS THE TYPE OF PERSON WORKING THERE

We don't try to impress people with a large sales staff, many branch offices, or a lot of gimmicks. We just try to give excellent coverage to our customers at all times. We make a sincere effort to match each customer with the home he desires, and, above all, we listen well to both the buyer and the seller. Because we are willing to put in the time and work harder, we are usually successful.

'CINDERELLA' COMING

To McCarter on May 24. The Princeton Ballet Society, which biennially presents its School of Ballet in a full-length ballet at McCarter Theatre, is mounting a new production of the popular classic, "Cinderella," for performance Saturday, May 24, at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

The production will be adapted for the Princeton Regional Ballet Company, which will give a special series of six performances for statewide audiences of senior citizens, disabled veterans and school children at the Garden State Arts Center in Holmdel, June 9 through 12.

Set to the music of Serge Prokofiev, "Cinderella" is being choreographed by the faculty members of the Princeton Ballet Society under the direction of Audree Estey. Costumes are being designed by David Guthrie, long-time assistant to Oliver Smith, co-director of the American Ballet Theatre.

By double-casting the two McCarter performances, nearly 300 ballet, modern and jazz students will be appearing in "Cinderella." A like number of parents are busy behind the scenes, particularly assisting Ruth Pettit and Gloria Woodside, costume coordinators.

Prokofiev's "Cinderella" was first performed in the Soviet Union in the mid-1940's and had its English premiere in 1948 at Covent Garden, London, by the Sadler's Wells Ballet, now the Royal Ballet Company, starring Moira Shearer as Cinderella and choreographed by Frederick Ashton.

The Princeton production is being choreographed by Joan Lucas, Judith Leviton, Ruth Langridge, Christina Klotz, Dodie Pettit and David Anderson. Tickets for "Cinderella" are now on sale at the McCarter box office, P.O. 526, (telephone 921-8700). Prices are $3.95 and $3.25 in the orchestra; $3.95, $3.25 and $2.50 in the balcony.

SUMMER'S COMING

And Intime Is Ready. Summer Intime, the repertory theatre that moves into Murray Theatre with the first warm days of summer, has announced plans for four major productions, a children's show, a children's workshop, a film series and a return of last year's Midnight Cabaret.

Auditions will start Friday, May 9, and will be held that day and on Saturday, May 10. Sign up for a time in the Murray Theatre lobby, or call 452-8181 and ask to be added to the list.

The audition will consist of one dramatic and one comic monologue and an interview. Aspirants should also consider singing a song, although this isn't required. The pieces selected should illustrate the range of the applicant's abilities.

Theatre experience is valuable, Summer Intime advises. Also, company members are warned that they will be asked to do box-office duty, technical work, help with administrative chores and take on maintenance responsibilities. It's a non-equity company.

Additional information is available from Kim Myers or Mitchell Ivers, care of Theatre Intime box-office, 452-8181.

MOVIES...

John Huston's 1972 film, ostensibly about the fight game, is really about the way people talk and don't listen. The film tells about a washed-up ex-fighter (Stacy Keach), who meets a young hopeful

THE PEACOCK INN
20 Bayard Lane (Rt. 206) Princeton, N.J.
PEACOCK TAPES — CONCLUSION

Q. The Peacock Inn Building has its Bicentennial coincidentally with our nation. What plans are being made?

A. The Inn hopes to continue to serve the growing Princeton area, and the Bicentennial visitors: in the restaurant for lunch and dinner; in the guest rooms for "weary travelers"; and in the 2 bars, the Peacock Alley in the cellars of the Inn, and the new cocktail bar on the dining room level.

Q. We've been reading each week about the Peacock Inn; its good food, its generous drinks, comfortable guest rooms. Tell us again where the Inn is located.

A. Just off Nassau Street, on Bayard Lane (Rt. 206). That's the street called Bayard Lane in the Borough and State Road in Princeton Township. The Inn is the third building from Nassau Street traffic signal, going north; a large white building with orange shutters.

Q. Why orange shutters?

A. Because Howard Johnson used orange very successfully.

Q. What thoughts should the readers of this series be retaining, after 2 months of intense admanship?

A. Readers who have never visited the Peacock Inn should now make that pilgrimage; old customers should return repeatedly; and all should remember the truly unusual features of this old Princeton landmark, as the Peacock Inn marks its 200th birthday as a building and 63rd as a public inn.

Q. This is the end of our discussion?

A. Yes, this series ends. Look for ads that extol the pleasures of our fresh broiled bluefish; our flounder stuffed with crabmeat, our lovely and individual bars, our old fashioned guest rooms; our famous fish and chips.

Thank you for reading this series.

'M+A+S+H' OFFERED to Montgomery. The Montgomery Players will present M+A+S+H this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 in the Montgomery High School auditorium. The play is an adaptation by Tin Reilly, taken from the novel by Richard Hooker. The players added a few adaptations of their own, including the character Klinger, to make the play more accessible to the audience.

Starring in the production are Donald McEwing and Keith Harshman as Hawkeye and Trapper John; Jeff Williams as Henry Blake; Kevin Forder and Wendy Deputy as Frank Burns and Margaret Hoolihan; Maggi Smallacombe as Dish, Calvin Lovering as Radar and Craig Krugman as Klinger. Isobel Clowes directs the raucous comedy. Tickets are $1.50.

COMEDY OFFERED

By South Brunswick Group. The Pulitzer Prize winning comedy, "You Can't Take It With You", will be presented by the South Brunswick Theatre Group at the South Brunswick High School auditorium, Major Road, Monmouth Junction, on Friday and Saturday at 8 and Sunday at 2. Tickets, $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students and senior citizens, may be purchased at the door or by calling 201-329-6463.

Joseph Karczewski will produce and George Philcox will direct this Kaufman and Hart comedy about the irresistible Sycamore family. Cast members include: Jack Kaplan as Paul, a mild mannered man who manufactures fireworks in the cellar. Bob Orlikoff is Tony, the handsome young executive in love with the only normal member of the Sycamore family; Dick Barnard is Grandpa, a man who has made his peace with everyone except the Internal Revenue Department; and Marjorie Kendall is Grandpa's daughter Penny, housewife-turned-playwright all because a typewriter was delivered to her by mistake—eight years ago.

MELODRAMA COMING

In Plainsboro. The Princeton Meadows Theater Group, formerly the Fox Run Players, have reorganized and finished casting for "The Great Western Melodrama."

The play will be presented May 30, 31 and June 1, in the Fox Run Clubhouse at Princeton Meadows, Plainsboro. All proceeds will be donated to the Plainsboro Public Library, in memory of Mayor Henry W. Jeffers, Jr.

For Street Theatre

"Support Street Theatre" is the theme of a door-to-door fund-raising campaign now under way by Street Theatre members. They are also selling ad space in programs, hoping to make up for the pencil-stroke that crossed them out of the municipal budget.

Street Theatre's members are in the seventh grade and up, and there are about 200 kids involved in the program. Last summer, productions were presented, free at Palmer Square, Princeton High and various other open air locations around town, on Street Theatre's mobile stage.

This Saturday, the company's comedy about Princeton today, "George Washington Amarcord", will be given during the "Nassau Street: Living Museum" celebrations.

MONTGOMERY

The Prisoner of Second Avenue. A well-adapted film version of Neil Simon's Broadway comedy about a New York city ad executive who suddenly loses his job, the contents of his apartment and most of his mind. Jack Lemmon and Anne Bancroft as his wife are very fine in what amounts to a two-character play.

Admittedly, there is nothing intrinsically funny about losing a job and veering toward a nervous breakdown—and this delves further into the dark area of middle-aged, upper income, urban despair than any of Simon's other plays—but the hard edge of reality is softened by the inevitable one-liners and barrage of wisecracks that Simon does better than anyone else.

Even more than the stage version, the film treads far more precariously the narrow line of pathos between humor and tragedy. "The Prisoner" does not have the universal appeal of "The Odd Couple."

Lemmon has always been adept as the put-upon, nervous victim of circumstances and he is perfectly cast as the ulcer-prone ad executive with his daily anxieties. As his inordinately patient wife, Bancroft is a delight. But it's all downbeat; the tendency to slide from comedy into pathos, especially in the second half of the film, will not leave the audience laughing.

NEW "DANCES"

From Pilobolus. Brand-new works, plus some old favorites, will be on the Pilobolus Dance Theatre program when the group returns to Princeton for a McCarter performance Tuesday at 8.

"Monkshood Farewell," given in premiere last summer, will be presented, and "Ciona," "Pilea," "Walklyndon," "Alruane"

Tickets at $6.95 and $5.50 are on sale at the McCarter Theatre box office. Students may obtain tickets at $2 one hour before the performance.

Thursday, May 8, at 8:30 in 10 McCosh Hall on the University campus. It is free and open to the public.

Under the direction of Robert Moreen, founder of Musica Alta, the group devotes itself to the music of the Middle Ages and Renaissance. In Thursday's concert, Mr. Moreen, a fourth year graduate student in music history, will perform on the harpsichord as well as direct. Other instrumentalists are William Darst, Violin; Stephen Westergan, 'Cello and John Burkhalter, Recorder. Singers will include Sopranos, Ann Sease-Monoyios and Judith Feder. Works by Handel, A. Scarlatti and Clerambault will be performed.

News of the Theatres screenplay) and some restrained direction by Roman Polanski which makes the film very much an expression of the '70s while steeped in the period and Sam Spade genre of the '30s.

This is the best thing Dunaway has done. Nicholson is in top form as a tough but easygoing private detective who sniffs out a plot to divert a proposed dam project from drought-ridden L.A. Physically, the film is highly polished, meticulously detailed and downright beautiful.

GARDEN

Emmanuelle. Columbia's first "X" is a soft-core French fantasy about a young wife's search for sexual fulfillment. A record-breaker in France, Emmanuelle is tame and dull stuff by U.S. standards.

It is based on a 1957 novel by Emmanuelle Arsan (a pseudonym) which was banned by DeGaulle in 1963 but still enjoys a considerable underground reputation. The film, reputedly the story of a young French wife living in Bangkok with her diplomat husband, paints a landscape—it is always lovely to look at—of bored, decadent expatriates who seem to have nothing to do but dabble in each other's flesh. Essentially, it boils down to a series of sensual explorations by 19-year old Sylvia Kristel whose husband wants her to experience the ultimate in sexual fulfillment. Since he is rarely around, Sylvia spends her days by the swimming pool with other diplomats' wives who perpetually talk about their sexual dalliances, covetously eye each other's bodies and periodically pair off out of sheer boredom.

Unfortunately, the utter boredom of diplomatic life also carries over into the characters on the screen, none of whom seem to think or talk about anything but sex. Motivation? There isn't any. The film is chock full of prettily photographed nudity (all female), and a tame assortment of soft-core couplings...which along with the novel's reputation probably accounts for its popularity in Paris. Here in this country the film is benefitting from a canny ad campaign. But titillating? It's dull, dull, dull.

The Reincarnation of Peter Proud. Based on the best selling novel by Max Erlich, this suspenseful exploration portrays a man's obsessive search for a prior existence.

Michael Sarrazin is a young college professor who comes to believe he has lived a prior existence. He encounters those whom he believes has lived with and loved in his previous life and is a tormented man until he finds the answers to his search. Beautiful Jennifer O'Neill co-stars.

SPACE IS DOUBLED
At Peterson's Organic Greenhouse. Twice the space, usually means twice the heating bills, and in these days of high-priced fuel this is a situation to be avoided. So when Charles Peterson decided to expand his greenhouse with a 90 x 90-foot addition, he wisely looked to the future and had it designed to accommodate solar heating.

Although the plastic pipes that will trap the heat during the day to be slowly released at night are not in yet, they are in the plans; and this will ultimately reduce the output of his traditional heating system to a minimum.

The open house celebration of this solarium began last Saturday and will continue through this weekend. On display are approximately 3500 hanging baskets in various sizes with the 6-inch ones specially priced at $2.95 (regularly $4.95). The varieties include bridal wreath, spiders, swedish ivy, strawberry begonias, wandering jews and many more.

Most impressive are the 16-inch wire baskets filled with sphagnum moss and large healthy two to three year old plants. While Mr. Peterson usually grows these as his propagation plants, he is selling some at the open house because he wanted "something bigger and better than anyone else." They cost $75, but they do contain a lot of

until the room is completed with pictures hung and the accessories placed on tables. Yet in just over six months the Junior League of the Central Delaware Valley has turned a large early 20th century home at 62 Hodge Road into a lovely Designers' Show House 1975. Most impressive of all is the coordination throughout the first floor. From the foyer you can see the study, living room and dining room, and you are immediately aware of the oriental influence on 18th century design.

The study, which houses a collection of Chinese Export Porcelain and Imari has been decorated with a magnificent blue pagoda print fabric and matching paper; the living room contains a Moroccan game table and many antiques; and the dining room is dominated by a handwoven Chinese Rug of the Ming design.

Also touches of the gay melon color of the oriental paper in the foyer are picked up in each of the rooms. Many show houses have a spotty look to them, and the Junior League should be congratulated for its close work with the many designers from New York, Bucks County, Princeton and Trenton to create a total effect.

A Teenager's Dream. Following the order of rooms suggested in the descriptive guide book you go immediately to the third floor where the designers have obviously had a great deal of leeway. Craig Miller Interiors of Hopewell has created a teenagers' dream -- a combination rap room and bedroom in natural colors with modular furniture, sleeping bags with snap-in sheets that can be rolled up for pillows or decoration, good lighting and bold Marimekko fabrics used as wall hangings. Down the hall the Reflectory is one of those rooms you dream about as the perfect spot for a retreat to solitude. Designed by Pamela Greathouse, walls and curved ceiling have been painted eggplant and the room simply furnished with a large soft-pillowed white couch and lucite cubes holding plants, books and a stereo. Spread on the couch are abstract pillows and a quilt in pastels designed by Nadine through Classics Limited of Princeton.

PLANT A PLANT: In a minute Spring Street niche no bigger than a petunia seed, plant lady Till Miller, shown here, has set out "Till's Plants," a mini plant-market which will be open every Friday and Saturday from now until frost (hours: 11 a.m., on). Dimitris Murphy, owner of the Assemblée Gallery at 4 Spring, suggested the plant nook as a way of brightening the minute area-way. Sculptor Jimmy Colavita designed the trellis. Helpers are Joni Jones, Becky Trafton, C.C. McCabe, Diane Tegner and Alison, Daniel and David Miller, scions of the plant lady.

Throughout the Spanish becuc cart complete with a Victorian home there are touches that shouldn't be missed. We particularly liked the mannequin reading in the bathtub in the bright yellow third floor bathroom; the feminine guest bedroom with its delicate pink floral fabric; the nursery with its small red footprints across the floor, and the man's study decorated with animals and conservation in mind.

We also liked the many graphics and paintings which brighten the halls and stairways, all of which have been selected by Artisan Gallery and The Princeton Gallery of Fine Art; and the gorgeous silk flower arrangements seen in all the rooms, primarily by Jeanne Cameron Shanks.

Closets Into Niches. In lieu of a boutique the Junior League has cleverly turned the many closets into small decorated niches, each with a specialty. There are antique and new quilts by Assemblée; needlepoint for every use whether it be an icebucket, small table or denim jacket from At the Sign of the Fox; ribbon pillows by Gail Jones; Leron linens; jewelry from Jewels Fargo; and many small gifts. Ten percent of all purchases goes to the Junior League.

The deep backyard has been nicely landscaped and the large terrace furnished with wrought iron and aluminum furniture from Nassau Interiors. We liked the bar-

ART
In Princeton

WRAPPING THE BAY: A project by Christo and Princeton University Graduate students, executed at Newport, Summer 1974.

At University Art Museum. It is always personally and socially difficult to assume a negative point of view when evaluating new approaches to art and visual expression. Accompanying the genuine reaction of surprise, disbelief and dismay at what one considers non-art or worse is the intellectual memory of the philistines who rapped the Impressionists at the Salon des Refusees and the irate, pompous and highly indignant American public which ridiculed the then new, now major, moderns at the Armory show in 1913 and, the many conspicuous publics with calloused aesthetics which have reacted against the new without being open to its merits. At the risk of being grouped with what art history has proved to be a collection of narrow minded dunderheads, it is still often necessary to maintain ones personal integrity with a large public "Nonsense," followed by an equally public, "So what!"

Like many of the newer "art experiences," a full examination of the Cristos experience depicted at the Art Museum requires a lot of reading—in this case, a smallish, expensive paperback catalog explaining the "meaning of it all." The first impression conveyed is that to understand the real thing, you should have been there, and, better yet, been in Newport Bay up to your aesthetic sensibilities helping to unroll 150,000 square feet of white sheet and spreading it over the waves. Included is much rhetoric and purple prose involving lots of justifications that verge on the religious for the very close relationship between the sheet and nature and more discourse on the art of relating to one's environment, as well as many photos.

What isn't offered, however, is any help for the uninitiated to enable them to distinguish between other man-made objects that relate similarly like boats, and life's flotsam and jetsam that also interact with their surroundings as they bob along. The exhibition is a photographic record of a large number of people applying a large amount of white fabric to a smallish cove in Newport Harbor.

The English Garden and Landscape is a combination of documents, books, drawings and paintings on the English Garden's role in European landscaping. Small watercolor studies, sketches and etchings including work by Turner and Ruskin complement formal plans for Mr. Pope's Garden, Kew Gardens, the landscaping of Pliny's villa and other intricate, delicate renderings of garden plans. The style of the print in the antique books, formal yet eloquent garden layouts and the rich panorama of the paintings and sketches create interesting interplays and contrasts and a great deal of viewing pleasure within the confines of a small display.

At McCarter Theatre. For the first time in many years the Annual Juried Member Watercolor Exhibition of the Princeton Art Association is interesting viewing. The collection seems to have drawn a new and better group of exhibitors and lost many of the more pedestrian painters that usually comprise this display.

Pleasing landscape, figure studies and florals are included in the collection. However, the focus still seems to be on technique rather than style and, while all the work is competent, and many more than that, the collection still wants for many genuine creative approaches to subject and technique.

A painting by Frank Perry, "Sagging Roof," is outstanding for its venture into original color approach, truly fluid use of the medium and most creative utilization of form and pattern. Jacqueline Burke is to be commended for the luminosity she developed within a very controlled composition in "Guatavita, Columbia."

At Kalens. Brush painting in the traditional Oriental manner is featured at Kalens. Ho Hwai Shouh and Grace Yang-Tse Tong have both created combinations of landscape and calligraphy which reflect the classical ink and wash technique.

Predominantly worked in tones of black and white with muted color accents, the patterns and rhythms of nature forms, structures and formal idiograms are explored and combined.

At the Public Library. Some of the best wall space in Princeton has been happily combined with the library window and other interior display areas for an exhibition of weaving and sculpture by Suzanne Guite. In what we hope is the beginning of a commendable policy of joining literary art with the visual arts, hangings and books about weaving have been combined to please the eye and stimulate the observer's intellectual curiosity.

Ms. Guite spent a great deal of time among the Indians of Southern Mexico and Northern Guatemala. During this time she learned many new techniques while sharing her own skills. The resulting pieces have the soft fluid shapes of water color painting and the fresh color and effect of florals. The forms are, however, free and although the feeling of the flower is present in all the work, a sense of pure pattern and design dominate.

The sculpture is more primitive in its manner and again combines a degree of technical sophistication with a sense of other cultures. A feeling of mass predominates.

Board's Stand Opposed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is an open letter to the Board of Education of the Princeton Regional Schools:

I am writing you publicly because I feel that you and other members of the community ought to be aware that a significant number of people in Princeton do not agree with your stand concerning our present superintendent of schools. While we do not necessarily agree with all of his policy decisions, we do not feel that he is the party who needs to be replaced.

Our problems in Princeton concerning budgeting, tenure rules, the relationship between the board and the administrators of the schools and the like are not unique to Princeton. The superintendent should be the focus of attention concerning these problems but not the scapegoat for your frustrations.

If you truly feel that you have grounds to legally cause his removal, it would seem only fair to proceed in an expeditious manner and settle the question finally. This would certainly seem a more fair course than the rumor-spreading and information leaking in which some of your members may have been engaged.

The superintendent has stated that he does not intend to resign. If he persists in this, and I hope he will, and, if your legal actions are of no avail, and I believe they will not be, then you should stand prepared to establish some relationship with the superintendent which will allow you to carry on the jobs to which you were elected. We need your total effort. If you are not prepared to do so, then perhaps, it is all of you who should be replaced.

In Support of McPherson.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

While I don't pretend to know much about the superintendent's professional conduct of the Princeton public school system, I do have an opinion about Phil McPherson and his public.

I feel the superintendent is a brave man who believes in the importance of his work. He has stood up for his ideas; he has defended his co-workers and fellow teachers.

If the School Board feels he has faults, I trust they also appreciate his virtues. He contributed much to our community through his eight years of work here in public education. I am sorry the Board did not say this in their prepared statement to the press.

In this contentious and thankless time, I am again reminded of the angry demands of the American Public. In Princeton, we, too, demand perfection in our public servants while screaming directions at them from the backseat; while seeking special favors for ourselves and scorning every sign of weakness in them. We are also the ones who voted against next year's School Budget and twice voted against the bond issue to renovate our aged High School building.

Simplistic Solutions.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The information on the world food situation given out by Princeton Hunger Action as reported in the Topics of the Town, April 17, is inaccurate and misleading.

First, FAO calculates that 400 to 500 million or approximately 15 percent of the world's 3 billion population are permanently malnourished. I have no idea where the figure that "40 percent of the world's population is undernourished" comes from or what it means.

Second, cattle generally go on forage after weaning and today in the U.S., 40 percent of the cattle slaughtered are grass fed for their entire life. Beef cattle have a unique ability to convert feeds other than cereals and oilseeds into protein for human consumption. Much of the land in the U.S. is useful only for grazing. The other 60 percent of the slaughtered cattle generally receive their first 400 to 700 pounds from forages (and milk) and are fed grains for finishing the final 300 to 500 pounds of weight.

Much of this grain is of such lower quality as would exclude its use for human food. The grain-to-meat conversion rate during this final stage varies depending on the level and rate of weight gain but averages about 1,050 pounds of grain per 100 pounds of carcass weight. The grain averages 9 percent protein, not all of which is utilizable, and the meat over 20 percent. Therefore, it is difficult to understand the claim that "a cow must be fed 21.4 pounds of vegetable protein to produce one pound of animal protein for human consumption."

Finally, in 1974-75, approximately 128.8 million tons of grains were fed to all animals in the U.S. Ten percent of this amount is approximately one percent of the total world production of grains. Therefore, it is difficult to understand how "if the U.S. population eliminated 10 percent of its highly wasteful beef intake, enough grain would be saved to feed the starving areas of the world."

Granted that the U.S. does eat too much meat for good health, that we waste too much food, and that animal production practices should be reconsidered, the primary beneficiaries of going meatless for one day are those people who forgo the meat. There is very little direct relationship between eating one less steak in the U.S. and improving the nutrition of the people in India. While food aid from the U.S. may help save lives in the short run (and this would result from money donations, not eating less meat), efforts must be directed toward assisting the people in the developing countries to produce more food in their own countries.

There are constructive ways that the informed citizenry can aid in this effort - in large part through encouraging the U.S. government to increase its amount of capital and technical assistance to agricultural development abroad. One of the main reasons for the proposed change in meat grading standards which consumer groups are opposing is the desire to reduce grain feeding in the final stages of beef production.

The Princeton community deserves better information and advice than the simplistic solutions which apparently are being suggested.

Commercialism Triumphant.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Much has been reported of the business community's satisfaction with plans for the Bicentennial kick-off. Little is known of the reservations felt and expressed privately by other segments of the community. It seems proper that some such dissenting view be more widely heard.

This year's May party, unlike those of prior years, will not offer an opportunity for artists and craftsmen to display their works for sale and spend the day visiting with other artisans, prospective buyers, and interested onlookers. We read that the reason for doing away with this popular aspect of the day's activities is that it is not appropriate for a Bicentennial celebration, or that the Party has been designed as a "giving" day or even, as Ann Reeves has said, that the Arts Council exists to serve the entire community and this year has chosen to serve the Historical Society. Taken out of context, these explanations might seem merely arbitrary or a bit odd, but the context should be considered.

In May, 1973, a remarkably successful Art People Party planned by the Arts Council brought artists, craftsmen and visitors from Princeton and a wide surrounding area to the center of town. Conversation, laughter and impromptu dancing in the streets were the order of the day and so pervasive were happy faces that Princeton Bank and Trust Co. used scenes of the day throughout its 1974 calendar.

A negative reaction, however, was expressed by a small but vocal group of merchants who saw in the party an interference with business. So virulent was their criticism that the Borough's mayor found it necessary publicly to observe the town does not exist for the benefit of the merchants alone.

The following year saw the May party moved away from the center of town and craftsmen required to apply for clearance to the Chamber of Commerce. This year more restrictions have been added and a ban on selling imposed on all but the merchants and the Chamber, which plans to offer historic postcards.

The Executive Committee of the Princeton Folk Dance Group has given careful consideration to these facts as well as to the many positive ideas and sincere efforts that have gone into planning the day's events. Reluctantly, we are led to the conclusion that commercial interests, potentially a constructive force in any community, have here exercised a disproportionate and improper influence in the planning of an activity that should serve all.

We are disappointed that so meager a vision of the Bicentennial Celebration has been allowed to prevail and that an opportunity to foster a sense of common purpose through full community involvement has been ignored in favor of a promotion for the downtown business district. However, the Princeton Folk Dance Group recognizing its responsibility to the Community will, in spite of reservations, again offer dancing for all. The Princeton Ethnic Dancers whose colorful performances have been seen in past years have, on the other hand, declined to perform in sympathy with the many artists and craftspeople who have been denied the opportunity for an active part in the day's events.

Support Summer Concerts.

To the Editor of Town Topics: There is an abundance of musical riches in Princeton during the period from October to May. Then come the long barren summer months, or nearly barren. There is one summer fare which in but a few short years has established itself as an important local 'festival': the Summer Chamber Concerts held in the North Court Quadrangle of the Graduate College. These top quality concerts were started by Barbara Sand, and she continues to manage every detail connected with their presentation. Thousands of area residents who have flocked to these events are in her debt.

Generosity in Princeton in helping the arts has always been special. In the past few summers many Princetonians and some businesses have supported these concerts. The New Jersey Council on the Arts lent a hand at the beginning of the enterprise. But now funds are drying up, and unless there is a concerted response to the appeal for further support, the 1975 Summer season will be in serious financial trouble. The decision facing every concerned resident of this area is whether this very precious summer series should be permitted to become diminished.

I urge all music lovers in and around Princeton to help save this new summer musical tradition. Checks should be made payable to "Princeton University Summer Concerts" and mailed to Summer Concerts, Woolworth Center, Princeton University. All contributions are tax deductible.

There are three kinds of leanness. The first, or simple type, according to authorities, is due to eating too little food, or expending so much energy that what would ordinarily be a good sufficient diet, is not enough to replenish and to rebuild used-up body tissues for the energy expended. The second type of underweight is quite different. There is a lack of stamina both physical and mental. Sometimes there are digestive disturbances as well. The third type of underweight is due to illness or glandular difficulties. Examine yourself, if you are underweight, and see what you can do to stabilize your condition.

VARIANCE BACKED

For Bicycle Sales. In the only case the Borough Zoning Board heard in its entirety last week, the board made a favorable recommendation to Mayor and Council that the Sunoco Station at 273 Nassau Street be granted a use variance to sell and service bicycles.

Another application involving a board decision on a proposed restaurant at 138 Nassau Street was postponed for a month, while a third involving property at 32 Vandeventer Avenue was only partially heard.

Attorney for the Sun Oil Co., Gordon Strauss told the board that the installation of a bicycle retail shop at the service station would present fewer hazards to motorists and pedestrians than one located in a cramped, commercial central business site. "It is ideally located," he said. He pointed out that the station's lot had ample space (17,000 square feet) and good visibility.

Although the applicant did not request one, the board in its decision stipulated that for safety's sake an identifying sign be installed so that motorists entering the station would be aware that bicycles were sold on the premises.

The applicant needed a use variance because the station itself is located in a residential zone.

Robert Poitras, who would like to install a restaurant in the bowling alley building on Nassau Street requested a postponement when he heard that two members on the board, who had heard the application the previous month, would not be present to consider new information.

The board had requested additional information about the availability of off-street parking before making a decision and Mr. Poitras wanted the full board to hear it.

Because only three members of the board were present, H. Peter Hodge of 40 Vandeventer, the applicant in a case involving property he owns at 32 Vandeventer, would need a unanimous vote for approval.

However, because the applicant's only witness, Morris A. Mather, previous owner of the property, had come from Maine to testify, Christopher Baker, Mr. Hodge's attorney and the board, agreed to tape Mr. Mather's testimony and continue the case next month.

At issue is the use of a two-story building at the rear of the property constructed in 1916. Mr. Mather traced for the board the occupants and uses of the building from then 'til the present.

BIKE RIDERS WARNED

Must Obey Law. Warm spring weather brings out bike riders as well as flowers, and Chief Frederick Porter has warned that all laws governing mini-bikes and bicycles will be enforced in the Township.

Mini-bike riders operating on public roads and pavements in violation of state law and Township ordinance will be stopped, Chief Porter said, their names, age and address taken and their parents notified. They will be informed of the laws prohibiting the operation of mini-bikes in open space areas in the Township.

If apprehended again, summonses will be issued to the parents, the mini-bike impounded and the youthful violator turned over to the juvenile office for further action.

The purpose of the bicycle safety program is to promote safe traveling and driving conditions, especially during the hours of evening and darkness, Chief Porter commented, not to penalize or punish

State law requires that each bicycle have a light on the front and rear for night use and this will definitely be enforced, Chief Porter said. Township police will enforce all other state bicycle laws, such as keeping to the right, no double riding, stopping at stop signs, the use of hand signals, and so on.

All police carry Bicycle Violation Notices. For the first offense, a violator will be further details and warned as to the violation, a copy of the notice sent to the parents and another copy kept on file at headquarters.

After three violations, juveniles will be summoned to appear before the juvenile officer with their parents. Adult riders, after a second offense, will be issued a summons.

EXTRA—Princeton Savings is a mutual savings institution, owned wholly by and managed entirely for the benefit of its savers.

EXTRA #1—Pleasing Service... it's another specialty.

In this increasingly complex world it has become necessary for people to consult a specialist for help. As an example take the case of doctors. In the past a general practitioner treated everyone for all kinds of illnesses. Not so today. People now rely heavily on specialists who are trained to give expert treatment in one particular area. This is also true when looking for a mortgage. It is difficult for lending institutions that provide a variety of loans (auto, home, business, personal) to be expert in one area. However, at Princeton Savings we are experts because our only lending business is home financing. We've been expressly trained to help you finance your home within your budget. Remember, a house is probably the biggest purchase you'll ever make—be sure it is properly financed. See the specialists at Princeton Savings. We've got the money and the knowhow to best finance your new home. (Even last year, when mortgage loans were almost impossible to get, we granted almost nine million dollars in home loans.)

SPORTS FANS!
I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Here's an oddity about the Kentucky Derby... Oddly enough, four of the greatest race horses of all-time - Man O' War, Kelso, Nashua and Native Dancer - never won the Kentucky Derby! ...None of those four famous horses ever finished first in the Derby.

One of the strangest baseball games in big league history was played on July 4, 1945 between the Yankees and Cleveland... During that entire 9-inning game, New York hit no ground balls for outs... Not one ground ball went to an infielder... Every putout that day resulted from a strike out or fly out.

Here's a baseball oddity... The Giants hold the all-time major league record for winning the most games in a row - 26 - but the year they set the record, 1916, they did not win the pennant or even finish second or third... Despite setting the record by winning 26 straight games, the best they could do was finish in 4th place.

TIGERS ABOUT DEAD
In Eastern League. Unable to salvage a single victory in three Eastern League games last weekend, Princeton's baseball team virtually dropped out of contention for the 1975 title and a berth in the NCAA District II Tournament later this month.

Ability to defeat the Tigers by identical 3-2 scores in both ends doubleheader at Clarke Field virtually clinched the championship for Pennsylvania, the Quakers' first since 1953. The Red and Blue, replacing Harvard as top dog after four straight first-place finishes by the Crimson, ran its overall won-lost record to 21-5 and should give a good account of itself in the NCAA Tournament.

Even before Penn arrived in town, Princeton has had made trouble for itself when it was unable to do more than tie a mediocre (7-12) Columbia team Friday afternoon. The Lions scored their two in the second, Princeton barely managing to draw even with two gone in the bottom of the fifth.

At the end of that round, the contest became a legal ball game, and with rain falling steadily from the third on, it was obvious an early end to hostilities was likely. The umpires finally called it in the top of the eighth, and the result went into the books as a tie-half a victory, half a defeat for each team in the standings.

None of that did the weak-hitting Tigers any good, since Penn picked up half a game on them and would thereby benefit even from a split decision on Saturday. Mark Softy pitched well enough to win, although both runs against him were earned, but his mates could do little with the Lion pitcher despite the latter's journeyman offerings.

Princeton never had the lead in either of its games with Penn, both of which it lost because it could not hit a sacrifice fly or a ground ball through a drawn in infield when third base was occupied with less than two away. At the end of the day, it was apparent that three sacrifice flies would have meant victory instead of defeat in the doubleheader, and when news came Sunday that Navy had walloped Penn at Annapolis, the Tigers' traditional weakness at the plate was all the more galling.

Although Princeton pitching (Mike French in the opener and Scott McHenry in the second game) was highly satisfactory, it was a superb exhibition by Penn's Andy Muhlstock that spelled the difference. He came into the first game with the tying and winning runs aboard and saved that victory, then hurled 12 fine innings in the lengthy nightcap to go 14 in all. The triumph in the latter contest raised his career record to 26-4.

In the opener, Princeton put the lead runner aboard six innings in a row but managed to score only twice. On one occasion, the Tigers filled the bases with none out and still scored but a single run. In the second contest, they collected a dozen hits and were held to two runs.

Earlier in the week, the same malaise prevailed as Rutgers blanked the Orange and Black at New Brunswick, 9 to 0. Sophomore Bob Tufts was the pitching victim on that occasion.

The Tigers were scheduled to play Temple at Philadelphia Wednesday and will return to league action this weekend with a single game against Cornell at Ithaca and two at Army Saturday. Fordham will be at Clarke Field next Wednesday, May 7.

TIGERS FACE HARVARD
In Lacrosse Saturday. Three more games on Finney Field will bring Princeton's home season to an end in lacrosse. The Tigers, who were scheduled to play host to Brown this Wednesday, will meet Harvard here Saturday at 2 and Rutgers next Wednesday at 3.

The season will end at Ithaca on May 10, against a Cornell team that is a shoo-in for another Ivy League championship. If the Tigers can achieve a ranking as high as eighth on a basis of their final games, they will have a shot at the NCAA playoffs later this spring.

An 18-3 rout of Dartmouth last week was preceded by a disappointing 12-8 defeat at the hands of Pennsylvania. The contest under lights at Franklin Field was even at the end of three periods, but the Quakers' 4-0 margin in the final quarter allowed them to win handily.

There was little competition from Dartmouth, where lacrosse is undergoing the same difficulties that so many sports at Hanover are currently experiencing. The Green trailed by 10-2 at the half, after having held Princeton to a 2-1 margin at the end of the opening round. Attackman Dick Tomas had the highest afternoon among the contented Princetonians, scoring six times and earning credit for two assists. Sophomore Wick Sollers also enjoyed the game immensely, all three of his goals and four assists coming in the first 30 minutes.

FRANCISCO RESIGNS
As PHS Athletic Director. Frank Francisco, named athletic director at Princeton High School two years ago to succeed Norman Van Arsdalen who gave up the position to take an administrative post at the school, has announced that he is resigning.

Francisco, who teaches electronics at PHS, will continue as AD until the end of the present school year. He gave personal reasons as his reason for stepping down but refused to elaborate. He will continue in sports as an assistant football coach, a position he has held for the past eight years. He has been a member of the PHS faculty for nine years.

It is expected that it will be several weeks before a successor to Francisco is named.

When the soft-spoken Francisco took over, PHS sponsored 13 major varsity sports and an extensive intramural program. With the advent of girls varsity sports, the school now offers 22 athletic teams for boys and girls from freshman through varsity levels—reported to be the most extensive program in the state.

Factors that added to the complexity of Francisco's job were how to provide for an expanding program with a shrinking athletic budget and the necessity to make changes in scheduling as PHS dropped from a Group 3 to Group 2 school as a result of a decreasing enrollment.

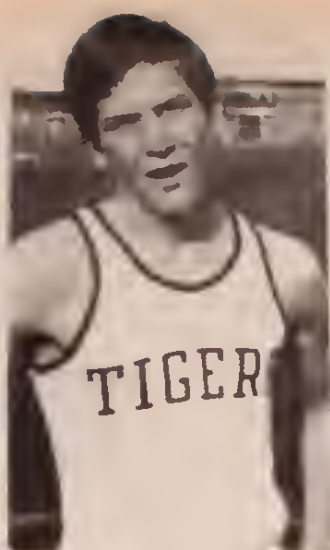

Another change will occur in the fall when Princeton joins other schools in the area its size, such as Hightstown, West Windsor, Lawrence and Hopewell Valley, to form its own sports league.

SOCCER CLINIC MONDAY

At PDS. Bill Killen, head soccer coach at Yale University, will demonstrate basic soccer skills to boy and girl players, their coaches and parents on Monday at 7 p.m. in the new Princeton Day School gym. The Pele soccer film will also be shown.

Before coaching at Yale, Killen spent four years at the University of Akron where he took his team to three NCAA playoffs. Killen has also coached at Hartwick College and the University of North Carolina.

Killen will be in Princeton to direct the soccer sessions of the Princeton Day Sports Camp from June 30 to July 4 and July 7 through 11.

Royce Flippin

PHS SETS RELAY MARK

At Lawrenceville. In the fifth renewal of the Lawrenceville Relays held last week at Lawrenceville's Lavino Fieldhouse, Princeton High School set a new meet mark in the high jump relay and Royce Flippin ran his fastest mile of the season to help PHS capture the distance medley relay.

Seventeen area teams competed in the event, in which there was no team scoring. Trenton High captured the most firsts—four—followed by Ewing which had three.

For PHS, Randy Bullock, Mark McLean and Fred Berkelhammer jumped a combined 17-8, topping the previous meet record of 17-6.

Flippin anchored the PHS relay team with a standout 4:24.4 mile leg—his fastest of the season as the Little Tigers edged Hightstown and Trenton—with a 10:44.6 clocking. Running first for PHS were Mike Bolster, Rich Hanny and Morgan Snyder. PHS finished second behind Ewing in the 440-yard relay.

A new meet record was also set in the two-mile relay by Trenton. The Tornados' time of 8:04.4 clipped two seconds off the mark set two years ago by Hamilton.

HUN NINE SPLITS

Busy Week Ahead. Weather conditions have spaced out the Hun School baseball schedule to the point where strong-armed Ernie Barbiero has either won or lost all but one of Hun's first seven games. But Hun coach Bill McQuade reports that will end this week when Hun enters a stretch which will find the Red and Black playing almost every other day.

Hun will entertain Admiral Farragut Friday at 3:15, travel to Newark Academy Saturday and Peddie on Monday and play host to rival Pennington School Wednesday in a 2:30 contest. This Wednesday, it was scheduled to play Academy of New Church in Bryn Athyn, Pa.

Barbiero was on the end of both decisions last week as Hun (5-2) lost a 6-1 decision to Lawrenceville School Saturday and earlier came from behind to nip Perkiomen, 4-3. The split left the rubber-armed junior with a 4-2 record.

The Larries touched Barbiero for seven hits, but two were triples that drove in all the visitors' runs. Seth Waugh hit his in the second—the runs were unearned—and Cooper Osborne unloaded his in the fifth.

Hun scored its only run in the last inning on a walk sandwiched between singles by Tom Dunn and sophomore Jimmy Cortina. Cortina, had two of Hun's four hits off winning pitcher Jim Sweeney. Lawrenceville is 6-1.

Retires 17 In a Row. Earlier, Perkiomen combined a walk, stolen base, a Hun error and a two scratch hits to jump to a 3-0 first inning lead. After that Barbiero settled down and retired the next 17 batters in a row.

Hun got two back in the first when first baseman Jeff Petrone tripled home two runs. Barbiero, a good-hitting pitcher, tripled home another to tie it and then Petrone tripled home the winning run in the sixth. Half of Hun's six hits were triples.

"They were playing us cheap. I couldn't believe how far in their outfielders were," said McQuade.

McQuade also announced that catcher Jack Porcelli is probably out for the rest of the season, suffering from mononucleosis. Porcelli, who did such a fine job behind the plate last year for Hun as a sophomore, has been out since the Ewing game and McQuade says that he's not counting on his return. Nick Brady, a transfer student from Princeton Day School, has taken over and has done a "nice job" said McQuade.

PHS NETMEN ROLLING
Win Fourth Straight. After an opening loss, the Princeton High School tennis team has rebounded with four straight wins, topping Notre Dame, 5-0, and Moorestown, 4-1, last week.

Coach Bill Humes' Little Tigers will play host to Hopewell Valley Friday and Lawrence High Wednesday and were scheduled to oppose Ewing this Wednesday at Ewing. All matches start at 3:45.

PHS overwhelmed the Irish as Andre Eichenberger, the number two singles, and both doubles teams, Malcolm Benjamin-Dan Schulman and Dan Amarel-David Bowen won, 6-0, 6-0. Freshman Allen Aronovic, the number three singles, won 6-2, 6-1, while his older brother, Dan, the number one singles, triumphed, 6-1, 6-4.

Against Moorestown, Dan Aronovic was the only loser. Both double matches, however, went to three sets. In both, Benjamin and Steve Ebersole and Bowen and Amarel won the first set and lost the second. PHS came back strong in the decisive third set, winning 6-0, 6-1. "It was as though they were asleep and just woke up," commented Humes.

TRYOUTS SET
For Little League. Tryouts for new players in the PYBA Little League will be held at 9 on Saturday, May 10, and Saturday, May 17, at the Grover Avenue playground.

To be eligible, players must be Princeton residents or attend a Princeton school and must be 9, but not 13 years of age prior to August 1. There is a $7.50 registration fee payable on one of the tryout dates. The league schedule will start on June 10 and end July 31.

WEISS TO ISRAEL
For International Meet. Irwin W. Weiss, former track coach at Princeton High School and field coach at Princeton University, has been selected by the National AAU to act as the track and field coach for a group of American athletes who will compete next week in the Hapoel Games in Tel Aviv, Israel. Jesse Abramson, a New York sports writer, will act as the manager.

Weiss has had experience in previous international competition. In 1965, he was the international coach at the Maccabiah Games in Israel and in 1969 he was the field coach for the national team which defeated the Russians and British Empire teams in Los Angeles.
